NATURAL GAS PRICES AT RECORD LEVELS AFTER STEEP 40% HIKE

This is the third increase in rates since April 2019 and comes on the back of firming up of benchmark international prices

$8.57 PER MBTU FOR LOCALLY PRODUCED GAS

The rate paid for gas produced from old fields was hiked to $8.57 per million British thermal units (mBtu) from the current $6.1, according to an order from the oil ministry's Petroleum Planning and Analysis Cell. Simultaneously, the price of gas from newer and difficult fields such as Reliance-BP's D6 block in KG basin, was hiked to $12.6 per mBtu

CNG, PNG RATES TO INCREASE IN TANDEM

- Increase in natural gas prices will likely reflect in higher rates for CNG and piped natural gas as natural gas is used to generate electricity, make fertiliser and is converted into CNG
- The Centre sets gas price twice a year (in April and October) based on rates in gas surplus nations such as the US, Canada and Russia

EMI to go further up as RBI ups inflation fight

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

HOME loan EMIs are set to rise as the Reserve Bank of India has increased the repo rate, at which it lends to commercial banks, by 50 basis points (0.5%) on Friday. With this, the floating home loan rates, which are linked to repo rates, will immediately rise by 50 bps.

Since May this year, RBI has raised the repo rate by 190 bps to 5.9% resulting in home loan rates shooting up from 6.65% to 8.55% in five months. A 50-basis point increase in home loan rates would cost ₹1,600 more in EMI for a ₹50-lakh loan with a 20-year tenure, or ₹300 more on a ₹1 lakh loan amount.

What is more worrying for borrowers is that RBI is not done with rate hikes. Since the central bank has not changed its inflation estimate for the full year at 6.7%, most analysts expect another 35-50 bps hike in rates in December 2022.

According to the RBI policy statement, inflation is likely to be above the upper tolerance level of 6% through the first three quarters of 2022-23, with core inflation remaining high.

"We believe that a 35 bps rate hike in December looks imminent," said Soumyakanti Ghosh, group chief economic adviser, State Bank of India.

Another 35-50 basis point increase may take the home loan rates to 9% or more. Such high levels were last seen in 2018.

Friday's rate hike may, however, bring some joy for depositors as FD rates are languishing below the 6% level across maturities. However, slow transmission of hike in repo rates to deposit rates means it may take some time before deposit rates breach the 6% mark. Currently, FD rates range from 5.5% to 5.7% across all maturities.

Meanwhile, RBI has lowered the FY23 GDP growth estimate from 7.2% to 7%. The equity markets, however, showed resilience despite the rate hike and lowering of GDP estimate. The Sensex and Nifty rose 1.8% as RBI rate hikes were in line with market expectation. P15

Kharge steps in, set to win with backing of Congress big guns

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

INTERNAL Congress elections took a dramatic turn on Friday with its veteran Dalit face Mallikarjun Kharge entering the race for the party's president on the last day of filing of nomination papers. He is 80 and has the support of top party stalwarts and the backing of the Gandhi family, making his victory in the October 17 election a foregone conclusion.

Senior rebel leaders, known as the G-23, deserted Kharge's rival candidate Shashi Tharoor, who was till recently part of their group. Bhupinder Singh Hooda, Anand Sharma, Prithviraj Chavan and Manish Tiwari were among the G-23 leaders who signed Kharge's nomination form. They were also present at the Congress headquarters in his support when he arrived to file his nomination papers.

After filing his nomination papers, Kharge told reporters, "I thank senior leaders from all states for supporting me in the Congress presidential election...I am fighting for a big change in the party."

This newspaper was the first to reveal that the Congress will elect a non-Gandhi as party president. The nominations for the polls closed on Friday and members of the Gandhi family stayed away from the process.

Former Madhya Pradesh chief minister Digvijaya Singh backed out after Kharge's name was announced and it became clear that the latter had the party leadership's support. Digvijaya signed Kharge's nomination and accompanied him to the AICC office.

Sources said Kharge will soon resign from the post of Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha in keeping with the party's rule of one-person-one-post. The party leadership had earlier asked Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot to fight the election but he declined after his loyalist MLAs refused to authorise party president Sonia Gandhi to choose his successor as CM.

Sonia will now decide whether or not he would continue as CM after his failure to control the revolt against the central leadership.

Our aim is to protect Constitution, says Rahul, as yatra enters K'taka

K SHIVA KUMAR AND K K KARTHIK @ Gundlupet

"BHARAT Jodo Yatra has been undertaken to safeguard the Constitution of India. Its aim is not to tell people something, but to listen to their pain and suffering," announced Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, to a rapturous welcome as the yatra entered Karnataka in the border district of Chamarajanagar district on Friday.

After traversing through Kerala and Tamil Nadu, Rahul was received by senior state Congress leaders on the fringes of Bandipur Tiger Reserve.

Folk artistes and dancers, including Jeenu Kuruba and Soliga Tribals, Veeragase, Goravara Kunitha, Huli Vesha and others gave a rousing welcome to the first leg of the march in the state, through their performances in Gundlupet taluk.

Colourful buntings and flexes adorned the 30-km road from Gundlupet to Begur.

The crowd outnumbered the chairs, forcing many to stand on top of trucks to have a glimpse of the Congress leader. Addressing a huge gathering at a ground next to Dr B R Ambedkar Bhavan in Gundlupet, Rahul, sporting a white T-shirt, said the Congress was forced to take out the yatra to reach out to people as various democratic institutions including Parliament and media have been hijacked by the ruling dispensation at the Centre.

"The government has taken everything under its control. Even our mics are muted in Parliament. Opposition party leaders are being harassed. No force can stop our mission (yatra) from Kanyakumari to Kashmir," he said.

"BJP and RSS are spreading hate. The sorrows and voice of the people are falling on deaf ears," he added. Soon after his address, Rahul led a march to Beggur in which thousands of people participated. P6

US sanctions Indian firm for Iran oil deal

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

THE US has slapped sanctions against an Indian company, Tibalaji Petrochem Private Limted, along with others from the UAE and Hong Kong for selling Iranian petrochemicals to end users in South and East Asia.

"The entities that have played a critical role in concealing the origin of the Iranian shipments and enabling two sanctioned Iranian brokers, Triliance Petrochemical Co. Ltd. (Triliance) and Persian Gulf Petrochemical Industry Commercial Co. (PGPICC), to transfer funds and ship Iranian petroleum and petrochemicals to buyers in Asia," said the US Department of Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC).

As for Tibalaji, the OFAC alleged that it purchased millions of dollars worth of Triliance-brokered petrochemical products, including methanol and base oil, for onward shipment to China. Officials in India reserved comment on the sanctions. The US also imposed sanctions on two entities in China, Zhonggu Storage and Transportation Co Ltd and WS Shipping Co Ltd, for their involvement in Iran's petrochemical trade.

HC orders BBMP polls before December 31

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday set the State Election Commission (SEC) December 31, 2022 as the date by which the entire process of elections to Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has to be completed. The court also set November 30, 2022 as the deadline for the state government to issue final notification after re-doing the reservation for women and Other Backward Classes (OBC).

Justice Hemant Chandangoudar passed the order while allowing a batch of petitions questioning the reservation notification, saying it was issued by the Urban Development Department in contravention of the triple test enumerated by the Supreme Court.

Some petitioners had alleged that more seats were reserved for women in assembly constituencies represented by opposition parties. The court observed that the reservation in particular constituencies would deprive women of other constituencies from participating in political issues and the same was arbitrary and discriminatory to women in all the constituencies.

Therefore, it would be appropriate that the reservation for women was spread out proportionally. Hence, the court directed the state government to redo the exercise of providing reservation to women for election by allocating seats in a descending order with respect towards having a greater percentage of population of women, and ordered that equality be maintained. In Karwar, tax is deducted even from ex-gratia

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @ Karwar

A Karwar court ordered immediate seizure of movable assets from the office of a special land acquisition officer for deducting tax from the compensation amount of a woman who lost her land to Seabird Naval Base project in 1984.

Though a compensation amount of ₹25 lakh was awarded to the woman, Sheela Dandekar, she was paid a sum of ₹20.20 lakh after being told that the remaining amount was deducted as tax.

Objecting to the tax deduction from her compensation amount, she moved the court. Sheela, a native of Shankri Bagh, had lost her one acre of land in Arga village near Karwar in 1986 when the land acquisition process for the naval base began. P7

Oppn sceptical of BBMP polls, despite HC order

Congress, JDS members express doubts over govt holding the elections, while BJP claims it is confident of winning elections

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

With the High Court directing the State Election Commission to complete the long-pending BBMP polls before December 31, former Congress and JDS members expressed doubts over the government holding the elections, while former BJP members say the party is always ready to face the polls.

Leaders like M Shivaraju and G Padmavathi from Congress and Bhadre Gowda opined that some may now approach the double bench on OBC reservations and this could lead to further delay.

Shivaraju, who had petitioned the Supreme Court to intervene in holding the BBMP elections, said the government could still resort to many ways to stall the polls. "Some BJP supporters may challenge the reservation process in court and may move the double bench. This may defer the elections. As the Assembly elections are due early next year, the polls may further get delayed," he observed.

Echoing it, former BBMP mayor Padmavathi said BJP is scared of losing the municipality polls due to its bad administration. "Increased potholes, flooded areas and scams during their term have dented their image. They are deliberately opposing ward delimitation and reservation and it will be used to stall the election," she alleged.

Joining the former BBMP Council members, former deputy mayor and JDS leader Bhadre Gowda said, "It's been two years since the BBMP Council term ended and the government did not make any effort to hold the polls. Even in 2008, when BJP came to power for the first time, they delayed the polls by two years. However, the court order is a relief," said Gowda. The HC direction is a ray of hope, said former mayor N Manjunath Reddy and former BBMP opposition leader Abdul Wajid. They said the verdict is like a slingshot against the BJP government as it is deliberately delaying the polls, as they have to respect the court order and ensure the polls are conducted now.

Former BJP corporators like L Srinivas and Padmanabha Reddy said the elections will be held for sure. While Srinivas said preparations like delimitation and OBC reservation are done, indicating that the government wanted to hold the election, Reddy said BJP is always ready as it is confident of winning.

'Seats for BCs a statutory requirement'

WHILE quashing the reservation notification, dated August 15, 2022, issued for 243 BBMP wards, the court observed that it could not be dispensed with as allocating seats to backward classes was a statutory requirement.

The court directed the state government to collect empirical data on a war footing and furnish the same to the commission constituted by the state government to look into the political reservation for OBC in local bodies.

After receiving the report from the commission, the state government has to publish the final notification providing reservation for OBC as specified under Section 8 of the BBMP Act, 2020 on or before November 30, 2022.

The SEC should complete the election process within 30 days from the date of final notification, the court added. The court has directed listing of the matter for reporting of compliance of the order on November 30, 2022.

Some of the petitioners have also challenged the report submitted in July 2022 by the committee constituted by the state government recommending reservation for OBCs in local bodies.

The court has not considered the request of the state government to provide 16 weeks to redo the reservation, as two years had already lapsed without conducting elections to the BBMP. The court had dismissed a batch of petitions challenging the delimitation of wards a few days ago.

BBMP chief says body ready to conduct elections

Bengaluru: Reacting to the High Court order regarding the BBMP polls, Palike Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said that the civic body has made all preparations to conduct the elections in the background of the decision taken at the government level. The commissioner stated that the Palike acted only in regard to the boundaries of 243 wards. "There is a hearing in the court about the reservation list, and the Palike has nothing to do with the reservation list as it is in the state government's ambit," he said. He added that the civic body is ready to conduct the election whenever the date is announced by the Election Commission. The Palike finalised and published the final voter list two days ago.

Fee to regularise illegal buildings on BDA layouts to be axed by half

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru:

THE State government is likely to slash by 50 per cent, the fee to be paid on houses built unauthorisedly before 2008, on lands notified by the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) for regularising them, said a highly placed source. This follows an exceptionally poor response to the move effected by the government two years ago to regularise them, with an amendment to the BDA Act.

The dismal response prompted the BDA to recommend this reduction to the government recently. "We are contemplating reducing regularisation fee by half. We will place it at the next BDA Board meeting to finalise it. Following that, it would be sent to the Cabinet for consent," the source told TNIE. The deadline to complete regularisation process would also be extended by three years.

A senior BDA official told TNIE, "As on date, we have received just 231 applications from house owners to regularise their properties built across our 64 layouts. A survey by EI Technologies revealed more than 20,000 houses built illegally. So the response has been very poor."

It was on October 19, 2020, that the State issued a gazette notification, amending the Bangalore Development Authority Act, 1976. A new section 38D was introduced, and the Act termed BDA (Amendment) Act, 2020.

FEE FIXED IN 2020

Under this Act, effected retrospectively from July 10, 2020, the regularisation fee levied was as follows: For 20x30sqft: 10% of guidance value; up to 30x40sqft: 25% of guidance value; up to 40x60sqft: 40% of guidance value; up to 50x80sqft: 50% of guidance value. Only buildings up to a maximum of 4000sqft would be regularised. For constructions on corner sites, the fee is double for the same dimensions.

These would apply only to concrete structures built in layouts, while temporary structures will be removed, another official said. Those built after 2008 would be demolished.

A BDA official said the high fee levied could have deterred owners from coming forward to regularise their houses. "Hence, we recommended a reduction in fee. We don't want to go ahead and demolish built houses. A BDA issued khata and sale deed will help them if they want to get a loan or sell their property in future," the official explained.

Exam paper confusion affects 14 colleges

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

A MAJOR question paper mix-up occurred on Friday, affecting as many as 14 colleges, courtesy Bengaluru City University (BCU).

Fourth semester undergraduate biotechnology students, who were scheduled to write their Genetic Engineering papers, were shocked to find that while the question papers had retained the title, but the syllabus followed was different, and raised an alarm.

"The question papers had the title Genetic Engineering, however, the content was questions from the old Molecular Biology syllabus which was changed in 2021. Repeaters from pre-2021 had their question papers marked 'Prior 2021'. However, on Friday, all papers were marked 'Prior 2021', including for freshers," said a biotechnology professor from an affiliated college, who wished to remain anonymous. The issue affected all BCU-affiliated colleges that conduct biotechnology courses.

"The examination was scheduled for Tuesday. The papers were confidential and students complained of the mix-up only after they received the question paper," another professor said. Following this, faculty alerted the university, following which BCU postponed the examination to a later date.

However, this was not the only issue that occurred on Friday, as repeater students also faced an issue, the professor told TNIE.

HC wants substantial progress in clearing encroachments

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

UNHAPPY with the progress made in clearing storm water drains (SWDs) of encroachments in Bengaluru city, the Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the Chief Engineer (SWD), BBMP to ensure that substantial progress is made in clearing the remaining 592 encroachments and file a status report before October 27.

Pointing out that only 10 encroachments have been removed in the last 10 days, a division bench said it will pass orders to withhold salary of the chief engineer concerned if no substantial progress is made.

Prior to this, BBMP's counsel V Srinidhi submitted that of 602 SWD encroachments, 10 have been cleared after the orders were passed on September 19.

Meanwhile, the BBMP informed the court that it has filled the remaining 221 potholes on major roads and submitted photographs.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

01st October: Today's Moon is sliding into a lively zone, kicking the month's planetary energies into a whole new phase. It's a fantastic time for a fresh start, and I would recommend an emphasis on old-fashioned good manners and co-operation. It's time for everyone to be perfectly nice to everyone else!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

This is a period which favours freedom, independence and far-sighted ambitions. There are also, conveniently enough, a spate of enjoyable planetary patterns which encourages treats and self-indulgence! My only words of advice are to avoid risks, emotional ones included, and attend to demands from children immediately.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)

All Taureans who are moving home, or making major personal changes, deserve congratulations for being so utterly in tune with the cosmos. The rest of you must find ways to radically smarten up your domestic conditions and improve your family relationships.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

By the time the Sun makes its next important alignment, all that needs to be said should have been said. This is no time to stand on ceremony, and a relaxed and informal approach will help to put everyone at their ease. Short journeys may be necessary, so don't put them off until later.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

Your finances deserve the top priority but it really doesn't matter whether you're saving or spending. On balance it looks as if extravagance is the favoured option, just as long as you don't object to paying over the odds. What you really need is value for money.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

Today's lunar alignments really do give suitable pause for thought. Your planetary influences show unrestrained emotion and passion, and you will have to respond in whatever way suits you best. You might even have to tell other people what they want to hear.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

Although it looks as if you may be trying to keep something secret, I don't think you'll succeed, at least not just yet. There are two ideal ways to maximise today's planetary energies - get involved in charitable ventures, and pursue a deepening mystery.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

When the chips are down you always do your best. This is a time to put yourself out on behalf of others, so don't feel exploited. Stormy social stars could provide a number of unexpected encounters, and a new, unusual, person could be walking into your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

There's something rather majestic about some of today's celestial events, although that doesn't mean you're going to have an easy ride. Your crisis management skills could be in great demand over the next forty-eight hours, to everybody's benefit!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

Two regions of your solar chart are now highlighted, emphasising long-distance travel and adventurous activities on the one hand, career and public ambitions on the other. Where these overlap, you will find your greatest personal success. It's all rather enigmatic!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

The sheer length of time you've been pursuing your current course is now one of your greatest assets. You could soon be moving to a new level of personal fulfilment and emotional satisfaction. Plus, travel plans may need checking, or even revising.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Today and tomorrow see the echoes of a series of tough and uncompromising planetary aspects that have been colouring your personal affairs for some while. Now is the time to separate ties and associations which are to continue, from those which may be dropped.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

No doubt many of you will be keeping busy today but, one by one, Pisceans have been falling by the wayside and I know that a good rest is now a vital requirement. Old and trusted friends make the best companions, and a touch of nostalgia will suit your mood.

Lokayukta cops search nine RTO checkposts

PeTA wants meat sale ban on MG Road

ENS @ Bengaluru

PEOPLE for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PeTA) India has sent letters to municipal heads of cities across India, including Bengaluru, requesting a ban on sale and advertisement of meat on MG Road, pointing out the spiritual and political beliefs of the leader.

Selling and advertising meat on a road bearing Mahatma Gandhi's name is disrespectful to his teachings of ahimsa, non-violence starts with what we put on our plates, said PeTA India Manager of Vegan Projects Dr Kiran Ahuja.

They encouraged cities across India to turn these roads into a haven for peaceful and meat-free meals.

3 migrants detained for smoking ganja

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@ Bengaluru

THREE migrant workers from a slum in Thubarahalli, near Whitefield, were detained on charges of consumption of drugs (ganja) on Thursday, said a member of the Interstate Migrant Worker Federation of Karnataka. Terming it "harassment", he said there have been instances as well, and it would not have been the case had they been living in an apartment.

On the contrary, an officer from Marathahalli police station said they had detained two workers, who underwent a medical test on Friday. One of the workers tested negative and was let go later in the evening.

Suman Das Mohapatra, president, All India IT and IT-enabled Services Employees' Union (AIITEU), Karnataka chapter, working with gig workers in Thubarahalli slum, alleged that police officers often harass and detain workers, and extort money. In case medical tests came positive, they threaten the workers to pay money, or file a case in their name. He said not everybody in the slum consumed drugs, and random people would be detained once in a while, without procedure.

There have been a few instances in the past as well. He flagged the fact that the three workers were detained for over 24 hours without a proper memo, or medical test. Police did not exactly provide any information for detaining the migrant workers, though it is usual for officers in the area to do so, Mohapatra added. He questioned the authorities for delaying the medical test overnight, and said in case of a drug case, if workers were detained they should have immediately carried out a medical test.

The federation worker said they were often harassed for no reason, and police came down heavily on them because they live in slums.

Revised KCET ranking list to be out today

Following multiple postponements of the revised Karnataka Common Entrance Test (KCET) ranking list, Higher Education Minister Ashwath Narayan confirmed that the ranking list would be issued on October 1 at 2pm on karresults.nic.in. Due to the delay in publishing KCET rank lists, students have sought a delay in counselling for Comed-K. The Comed-K counselling process for engineering courses began on Thursday. While counselling had been delayed due to the KCET case, it had begun as soon as the issue was resolved by the high court. However, student organisations have appealed for a further delay, so that Comed-K counselling is taken up after KCET counselling begins. A memorandum was submitted to the KEA on Friday, requesting the same. It also sought that students should not be fined for giving up their Comed-K seats in favour of government seats, once the KCET rankings are out. ENS

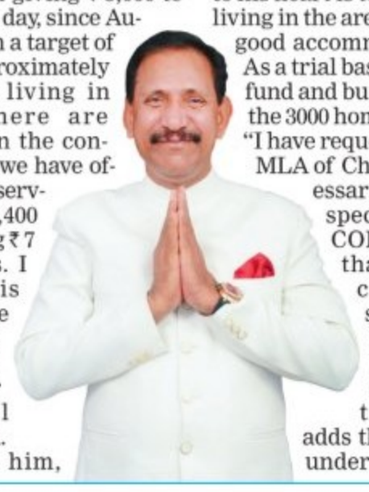
'My Social Services are Aimed at the Entire Society, Irrespective of Caste, Creed or Religion'

One of the highest individual taxpayers of Karnataka, having paid ₹12.37 crores as tax this year, KGF Babu's ambition is the upliftment of the society and betterment of the state of Karnataka, following his belief that 'giving liberates the soul of the giver'.

Having experienced poverty in his growing up years in the slums of KS Garden in Chikpete, Yusuf Sharief, renowned as KGF Babu, was always determined to give back to society when he is capable enough. And in this pursuit of one great decisive aim, he has embarked on a mission to elevate people lives.

Under Umra Charitable Foundation, he has been giving ₹ 5,000 to each house every day, since August 31, 2022, with a target of covering the approximately 50,000 families living in Chikpete. "There are 2,20,000 voters in the constituency. So far, we have offered the charity service by giving 15,400 cheques, totalling ₹ 7 crores, 70 lakhs. I am offering this charitable service to families irrespective of caste, creed, religion or their political bend," says Babu.



According to him, the amount is used by the families to meet various expenses, he will be increasing the amount from next year to ₹ 10,000 for each house. "I intend to do so till the day I am capable of doing service to the society," he says and adds that he has decided to spend ₹ 350 crore for the next five years on his dream initiative.

Another venture which is close to his heart is to ensure that people living in the area are provided with good accommodation facilities. As a trial basis, he is planning to fund and build 300 homes out of the 3000 homes already present. "I have request the present local MLA of Chikpete to get all necessary civic permission, specially BBMP, BESCOM, BWSSB, etc. If that aspect is taken care, I take the responsibility of the homes. I do not have the power to ensure civic amenities," he says and adds that the trial will be undertaken once in four months with each home costing ₹ 6 lakhs. "To construct 300 homes, I will be spending ₹ 18 crore and for 3000, it will be ₹ 180 crore," he mentions.

KGF Babu's new initiative to construct homes for the poor and the needy is considered to be a first-of-its-kind initiative in the country; a social effort which has been backed by Chikpete residents.

Having been associated with the Congress party from the beginning, he says that he has only goodwill of the party principles, which also played a vital part in inspiring his social activities.

"God has given me the strength and the avenues to better the lives of the needy. I do not intend to just give, but be passionate about being capable of helping, and even understanding of what that person who is receiving needs the most," he states.

Babu also stressed that while his compassionate activities are not politically motivated, it will earn benefits, if not only for his political ambitions but also for about ten Congress candidates in the Assembly elections.

As a temporary measure, the Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the prisons department to allow Murugha Mutt authorities to take the signatures of mutt seer Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru, arrested in a Pocso case, on cheques on October 3, 6 and 10 that will allow disbursal of salaries to mutt employees. The signed cheques will allow purchasing of oxygen to medical college.

RAHUL GETS PREAMBLE FROM DEVANURU MAHADEVA

● Siddaramaiah alleges a section of police colluding with BJP in tearing Cong posters ● Rahul hears out plight of Chamarajanagar oxygen tragedy victims

Congress MP Rahul Gandhi shows the Preamble which was handed over by noted writer Devanuru Mahadeva in Mysuru on Friday | UDAYSHANKAR S

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

MEMBERS of civil society, led by well-known writer Devanuru Mahadeva, extended their support to the Bharat Jodo Yatra led by Rahul Gandhi that entered Karnataka in Gundlupet on Friday.

Mahadeva, a scathing critic of RSS and BJP and the author of the book -- 'RSS - Its depth and breadth', handed over the Preamble to Rahul just before the latter embarked on the Karnataka phase of his yatra.

Other progressive thinkers said it is high time that the Constitution is protected.

Mahadeva shared the stage with Opposition leader Siddaramaiah, with whom he shares a good rapport. Social activist Yogendra Yadav, who had extended his support to the Yatra, took part in the march with other activists.

Stop vandalism or face workers' wrath: Siddu to BJP

ANGRY with miscreants vandalising posters of Congress and damaging flexes of party leader Rahul Gandhi and others put up for the Bharat Jodo Yatra, Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah alleged that a section of police officers is colluding with BJP, and warned that they will be dealt with once Congress comes to power in the next six months.

Addressing a gathering at the launch of Karnataka phase of Bharat Jodo Yatra that began from Gundlupet on Friday, Siddaramaiah CM was visibly angry at the way the posters of his party on national highway were damaged. "I warn the BJP leaders against vandalising our party posters. If such incidents continue, no BJP leader will be able to walk the streets freely in the state as our party workers have that kind of power," he said. "I want to tell the police that in the next six months, the government will change. Congress will be back in power. I am warning them to take necessary steps," he added.

Rahul promises jobs for families of Ch'nagar tragedy

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday assured family members of 36 patients, who died at a Chamarajanagar Hospital during the second wave of the Covid pandemic due to oxygen shortage, will be given government jobs if Congress comes to power in Karnataka.

Interacting with the family members of the victims near Gundlupet, Congress leader Priyank Kharge said Rahul promised one member of each family will be given a government job. He also consoled the family members who shared their plight and assured them of suitable compensation.

The tribals pressed for their rights to collect minor forest produce in Bandipur National Park, and stated that declaring MM Hills as a tiger reserve will affect common people.

The Soliga tribes demanded political reservation, and alleged delay in distribution of nutritious food to tribals.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar said they will urge the government to meet the demands of Soligas. The tribals from HD Kote gifted Rahul with honey.

Rahul's yatra route modified, march shortened by 2 days in K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru/Chitradurga

THE route map of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra has been changed slightly to avoid passing through a forest range between Sira and Hiriyuru taluks of Tumakuru and Chitradurga districts.

Now, the 22-day passage of the Yatra in Karnataka will be cut short by two days with the omission of Gubbi and Sira Assembly constituencies. With this, a mega convention of party workers scheduled for October 18 in Ballari has been advanced to October 15. Yatra convener in Karnataka and Leader of Opposition in the Council BK Hariprasad clarified that the modification is to avoid the forest stretch.

After the convention, the yatra will march to Adoni in Andhra Pradesh and return to Karnataka to traverse through Raichur district before entering Telangana, he added.

Sources said AICC general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra likely to take part in the yatra on October 7 when it reaches Nagamangala taluk in Mandya district. Sonia Gandhi may take part in the Ballari convention as she had won the LS seat from the parliamentary constituency in 1999. The yatra, in its Karnataka journey, will pass through seven districts covering as many LS constituencies and 21 assembly segments. The parliamentary constituencies that the yatra will pass through include Chamarajanagar, Mysuru, Mandya, Tumakuru, Chitradurga, Ballari and Raichur.

"The Yatra's route which was diverted to Gubbi now stands cancelled and it will directly enter Chikkanayakanahalli through Kibbanahalli Cross of Tumkuru district along the original route," KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed said.

Party workers and leaders from Assembly constituencies that will not be touched by the yatra have been told to join the march at scheduled places.

"The stretch between Kenkere to Hiriyur has forest patches and ghat-like terrain. That is why the evening leg from Hiriyur city begins at 4 pm. The present modified route was originally designed by us. But it was modified slightly to make the yatra pass through Gubbi and Sira taluks. But now, the two places are being omitted, while sticking to the original plan," Saleem Ahmed said.

The yatra will take a two-day break on October 4 and 5 because of Dasara holidays. It will stop again on October 17, as the AICC president poll has been scheduled.

'Iron'-ical as people carry poles home

KARTHIK K K @Mysuru

BHARAT Jodo Yatra by Congress suffered a bit of a setback when people uprooted and fled with metal flagpoles that were erected on the Gundlupet-Mysuru Highway as part of its decoration to welcome party senior leader Rahul Gandhi.

The party workers and cadres who put up the poles toiling all day did not expect that people participating at the inaugural event would steal the poles. Many enthusiastic villagers, who took part in the Yatra, were seen carrying the poles without flags, as it could fetch them some money from scrap dealers.

When questioned, Nanjaiah, who stays near Kelasuru, said he took away seven poles. "We are battling inflation and it is really hard to eke out a living working as a daily wage labourer. There is no harm or crime in taking them," he said, and started running away in the face of more questions.

Though Congress has organised lunch, snacks, dinner and high-tea including buttermilk and sugarcane juice, many were seen taking away water bottles and at least 10-12 bananas as the organisers were exhausted distributing them to thousands of people under the scorching sun.

BJP jibes greet Rahul's yatra

Bengaluru: BJP in Karnataka welcomed Congress senior leader Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra with a jibe that he is visiting one of the best-ruled states, as protection for Dalits is better here, as compared to Congress and non-BJP ruled states in the country. BJP suggested that he refuel his yatra vehicles in BJP-ruled states as prices are lesser. As compared to Tamil Nadu (Rs 94.71 per litre of diesel), Kerala (Rs 94.84), Jharkhand (Rs 94.61) and Rajasthan (Rs 93.72), in Karnataka it is Rs 87.49 per litre, it pointed out. BJP launched the attack through a series of tweets, quoting statistics from NCRB's crime index report and other indices. "Karunadu does not need your mantra of peace," it suggested.

Cong leaders walk on road we built: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

MINISTER V Somanna on Friday criticised the Bharat Jodo Yatra, led by Congress senior leader Rahul Gandhi, saying opposition leaders are walking short distances and then hopping onto vehicles.

He said, "I have walked hundreds of kilometres with former PM Chandrashekar when he went on his padayatra."

BJP MLC Chalavadi Narayanaswami said, "BJP builds roads and infrastructure, and Congress walks on it."

On Congress yatra-related posters destroyed in Chamarajanagar, he said, "We have not torn the cut-outs. "

He said, "Today, the yatra has started from the district I am in charge of. Development works here were carried out by the BJP government. The work of filling up 22 tanks at a cost of Rs 212 crore was started when BS Yediyurappa was CM. As the district in-charge minister, I released Rs 110 crore in one go. The BJP government will fill 14-15 lakes and erase the impression that it is a barren and unprotected district." He said, "A medical college was started in 2012-13. We are planning a national highway here. When Jagadish Shettar was CM, the Male Mahadeshwara Authority was started. What has the Congress done?"

A ship without captain, Shobha's barb at Congress

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Udupi

UNION Minister of State for Agriculture Welfare Shobha Karandlaje claimed that Congress is facing an existential threat, and called the party a ship without a captain. Lashing out at Congress on Friday for seeking a ban on RSS, he said former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi had lost an election for banning the Sangh.

She alleged that former chief minister Siddaramaiah turned Karnataka into a financial hub of PFI.

PFI had transformed into a training centre for launching terrorist activities and their members were murdering Hindu activists, she said.

Hitting out at Siddaramaiah for allegedly playing appeasement politics, she said, ''Because Siddaramaiah as CM withdrew cases against PFI activists, that organisation grew strong,'' she said. On Bharat Jodo Yatra, she said Congress leaders should launch the Yatra in places where they are responsible for dividing the country. ''Who is responsible for Pak-Occupied Kashmir,'' she asked.

Ex-min: Kharge will be unanimous choice

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kalaburagi

WITH Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot bowing out of the contest for Congress top job, former minister and vice-president of KPCC Dr Sharanprakash Patil said that Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge has very high chances of winning the election.

Patil accompanied Kharge who filed his nomination papers in New Delhi on Friday, and told TNIE that many senior leaders of the party over phone endorsed Kharge. He exuded confidence that Kharge will be a unanimous choice. He will win the polls as he is contesting only after getting the nod from interim president Sonia Gandhi and Congress MP Rahul Gandhi.

Congress MP Mallikarjun Kharge files his nomination papers on Friday

It is a reward for Kharge's loyalty and dedication to Congress, former MLC Allamaprabhu Patil said in a statement on Friday.

Gandhis will control party president, predicts Joshi

Vijayapura: Union Minister for Parliamentary Affairs Pralhad Joshi said, "Whoever becomes the president of AICC, he will be remote controlled by the Gandhi family." He was responding to the ongoing fiasco regarding the candidate for AICC elections. Joshi told media persons on Friday, "Irrespective of who becomes Congress president, the remote control will be in the hands of the Gandhi family. The president will not be given a free hand. BJP has no interest in the internal party affairs of the Congress over the election of the new president." Taking a jibe at Congress MP Rahul Gandhi, who is leading the Bharat Jodo Yatra, he said, "Rahul is a non-serious and part-time politician of the Grand Old Party. The Congress has confused leaders, and so, the party is confused and is in a disarray." "This is one of the main reasons that the party is losing in a series of states. Wherever the party has won the polls, it is because of the local leadership," he said. — Mahesh M Goudar

Kharge's win to boost Cong in K'taka: Leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS leaders from the state said Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge, who has filed his nomination for the AICC president poll, will win the elections and his elevation will boost the party in Karnataka.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar and Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah proposed Kharge's name for the post, while KPCC General secretary Vijay Mulgund submitted the papers in Delhi.

Former minister and senior Congress leader MB Patil tweeted that the elevation of Kharge will boost the state Congress. Former KPCC president Dinesh Gundurao tweeted, "A sober and intelligent man (Kharge) with vast political experience, great administrator and knowledge of history. I am sure he will win hands down." A senior Congress leader said that if Kharge wins, it will boost the confidence of state Congress workers ahead of Assembly polls.

Interestingly most of the senior leaders from Karnataka did not tweet about Kharge, but had many tweets related to Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra.

Explain reason for banning PFI: Prajwal

Hassan: Unhappy over the way PFI was banned, Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna said the Centre took a harsh decision by banning only the PFI. He said Home Minister Amit Shah should have held an all-party meeting to discuss the issue. "Union government should have come up with a proper reason and evidence before banning only PFI. The decision has hurt sentiments of a particular community," he said.

Siddu govt withdrew cases against PFI: CM

Hubballi: CM Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said CLP leader Siddaramaiah is seeking a ban on RSS to cover up his government's blunder of withdrawing cases against PFI when he was chief minister. He said Congress leaders have no right to question the ban on PFI by the central government. "In the past, their government withdrew cases against PFI activists. To cover up their mistake, they are seeking the ban on RSS," he charged.

CM TO BE IN DELHI SOON FOR PARTY NOD TO CABINET REJIG

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bagalkot/Vijayapura

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said he will visit New Delhi soon to get the approval of central leaders to expand the cabinet.

Offering the bagina to Krishna river at Lal Bahadur Shastri Water Reservoir at Almatti on Friday, he said, "The cabinet will be expanded only after getting the nod from party central leaders."

On the Centre banning PFI for five years, he said, "Even Congress had demanded a ban on the outfit. It had raised the issue inside and outside the Assembly. The BJP government has finally taken a good decision which has been welcomed by many."

On the demand of a few Opposition party leaders to ban RSS, he said, "RSS is a nationalist organisation. It should not be compared with the anti-national outfit like PFI. It is foolish of Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah to draw a comparison between the two organisations."

CM Basavaraj Bommai offers bagina to the Krishna at Almatti Dam on Friday | EXPRESS

On increasing the height of Almatti dam from 519.6m to 524 m, he said, "The party's main goal is to meet this demand. Since the matter of Krishna Water Disputes Tribunal is before the Supreme Court, I believe that the matter will be sorted out at the earliest."

He said, "As soon as the central government issues a gazette notification, the state government will take necessary steps to increase the height of the reservoir to make use of additional allocation of water for irrigation."

Jarkiholi to spearhead BJP victory in B'gavi: Kateel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

EVEN as former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi is struggling to wriggle out of the CD case, BJP is keen to face the 2023 Assembly elections under his leadership in all the 18 assembly segments of Belagavi district.

BJP state president Nalinkumar Kateel said in Belagavi that BJP will win all the segments in Belagavi under Jarkiholi's leadership. He said that Jarkiholi will be surely inducted into the state cabinet, but the chief minister will take the final decision. "We have seen the legislators joining ruling parties from the opposition. But a powerful leader from the ruling faction Jarkiholi switched to BJP along with 16 MLAs and ensured the BJP formed government," he said.

Regarding the ban on PFI, Kateel said, "Congress promoted organisations like PFI, SDPI, among others in the past. Mahatma Gandhi was aware of the fact that Congress will destroy the country if it remains in power after Independence. He wanted Congress to be dissolved after Independence," he said. Asked whether elections in Gujarat and Karnataka would be held simultaneously, he said the state would not go to the polls midway under any circumstances.

Falling rupee burdens importers, students in foreign universities

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE falling rupee hurts credibility and slows investment, it gives a fillip to inflationary conditions at the macro level and is a burden on wallets at the micro level.

Businessmen complain that it hurts their margins. Shailesh Mehta, who imports medical equipment, said, "The selling price is fixed with the government because of tenders and lock-in specifications, and we cannot go back on our commitment. The huge difference is a burden and there is no safety clause. Add GST and the burden works out in the range of 14-15 per cent." Mehta, who is into the paper importing business too, said paper rates have jumped 40-50 per cent, which is a burden. Export businessman Rajesh Shah said the picture is none too rosy for exporters either. "Exporters should be very happy with the depreciating rupee because we receive more rupees for the same USD pricing of our products. Ironically, we are also facing issues due to high input costs of imported raw materials, due to which our products are not competitive, and our overseas customers don't want to pay higher prices."

Santosh Neelangatil, whose daughter studies abroad, says the cost of education is spiralling. "It's a challenge, the steep fall in the rupee has forced us to rework our financials with a compromise in other investments and domestic expenditure," he said, and quipped that the rupee dips most when his daughter's semester payment is due. "It has affected the export-import business. Import content of most exporters is about 50 per cent, so due to depreciation, the exporter loses out," said National Executive Committee member of FKCCI and Assocham J Crasta. "The RBI has already pumped in $350 billion, but the rupee is losing ground and is a big worry for exporters."

Economist and former National Finance Commission member Prof Govinda Rao said that most emerging market economies are facing sharp depreciation in exchange rates due to steep increase in the Fed interest rate. Until the Fed stops the hike cycle, currencies of most emerging economies, including India, will depreciate, causing increase in import cost and pressure on prices, he said. "Global inflationary forces and petro product prices are the major reasons behind the falling rupee. RBI is taking steps to restrain the fall, but these are ineffective as Indian consumption of petroleum products and imports continues at a faster rate. The fall is inevitable, given our unabated consumerism," former ISEC chairman Prof R S Deshpande said.

This free fall is hurting importers as well as Indian students studying abroad, said Prof Sankarshan Basu of IIM-B. "There is no idea about the bottom-out level of the rupee. It could have serious implications, both in the business and personal space, as exports and remittances do not necessarily match the fall. This might even lead to huge additional and unplanned liabilities, causing bigger damage to the domestic economy," he said.

MADRAS HC ALLOWS RSS MARCH ON NOV 6

TN govt had said no to rally citing law and order situation in the aftermath of PFI ban

R SIVAKUMAR @ Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Friday directed the Tamil Nadu police to permit RSS to conduct 'route march' on November 6 instead of October 2, as per an earlier order of the court, and warned of contempt action if the order is not complied with. Justice GK Ilanthiraiyan passed the order on a contempt petition filed by Karthikeyan, an officer-bearer of RSS in Tiruvallur.

When the state, represented by senior counsel and Rajya Sabha Member NR Elango and State Public Prosecutor (SPP) Hasan Mohammed Jinnah, expressed difficulty and cited law and order situation in the aftermath of the ban on Popular Front of India (PFI), the judge asked the petitioner to suggest some day other than October 2. The judge later directed the state police to grant permission for the RSS route march on November 6 instead of October 2, Gandhi Jayanti Day. The judge, while keeping the contempt petition alive, also directed the police to grant permission before October 31.

Appearing for RSS, senior counsel S Prabakaran stressed that violation of the court order amounted to contempt of court. Rejection of permission by the police amounts to mockery of judiciary and the authority of judiciary cannot be undermined, he said. He further submitted that the state had refused to grant permission citing the ban on PFI. "Just because some other organisation is banned, RSS need not suffer; it is not a banned organization," Prabakaran said. How can RSS be prevented from celebrating the birth anniversary of Gandhi, asked another counsel NL Raja. Citing intelligence inputs and alerts shared by the Centre, Elango said such inputs cannot be ignored considering the emerging situation after the ban on PFI.

Justice GK Ilanthiraiyan on September 22 granted permission for RSS route march at about 50 places in Tamil Nadu, subject to conditions. However, the state police on Thursday said no processions or events would be allowed on Gandhi Jayanthi Day.

FOR 2ND STRAIGHT YEAR, KERALA SEES DEFICIT SW MONSOON

KOCHI: The four-month Southwest Monsoon season, which delivers 70% of Kerala's annual rain, has ended on Friday, recording a 14% deficit. An IMD source said the monsoon has started withdrawing from North India on September 17 and is expected to retreat from Kerala by October 20. In 2021, Kerala recorded a 16% deficit during the season. This year, the IMD has revised the normal rainfall for the season and reduced it from 2049.2 mm to 2018.6 mm. Compared with the old average, the deficit this year is 312.6 mm (15.25%). ENS

Normal NE monsoon likely, Bay may spin more cyclones this year

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Chennai

THE Indian Meteorological Department on Friday said the southwest monsoon over India has officially ended with 6% excess rainfall and the onset of northeast monsoon, which contributes to 48% of Tamil Nadu's annual rainfall, will begin around October 20 and is most likely to be normal.

Mrutyunjay Mohapatra, Director-General of the IMD, said, "Northeast monsoon rainfall over the south Peninsular India consisting of five meteorological subdivisions (Tamil Nadu, Pondicherry, Coastal Andhra Pradesh, Rayalaseema, Kerala and South Interior Karnataka) is most likely to be normal in the range of 88%-112% of Long Period Average (LPA).

The LPA of rainfall over south peninsular India during the October to December season based on data from 1971 to 2020 is about 334.13 mm.

Besides rainfall, the northeast monsoon is notorious for tropical cyclones. On average, the season witnesses three cyclonic storms but this year there is a likelihood of more and also intense storms forming in Bay of Bengal due to prevailing La Nina and negative Indian Ocean Dipole (IOD) conditions.

'Sundays meant for the faith, not schools'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

Flexing muscles, the Kerala Catholic Bishops' Council (KCBC) on Friday issued an open call to defy the State Government order directing schools to function on Sunday, October 2, to hold anti-drug activities. Going a step further, the apex body of the Catholic denomination in the state asked the Church's educational institutions to ignore any future government orders to work on a Sunday.

"Sunday is a day that has to be set aside, like how it used to be till now, only to engage in activities related to the Christian faith. Also, henceforth, all Catholic educational institutions needn't obey the state government order that directs them to work on a Sunday," said the KCBC. However, the students, teachers and parents can organise anti-drug awareness programmes on a suitable date later and thus cooperate with the state government, it said.

The government had, in a circular dated September 28, asked all the schools in the state to function on the Gandhi Jayanthi day to hold activities as a part of its 'Drug-free Kerala' initiative. As per the circular issued by the Department of General Education, one month, from October 2 till November 1, was to be used to organise intensive programmes to curb drug abuse among students.

"On October 2, Sunday, the state-level inauguration of the anti-drug campaign by the chief minister and his speech afterwards are to be shown to the students at the school assembly. All those students who can come to the school should attend the function. The entire teaching staff has to be present in the school and take part in various activities like cleaning and anti-drug programmes," said the circular.

This is not the first time the Catholic Church in Kerala has come out against the state government's decision to make Sunday a working day. Earlier this month, the Synod of the Syro-Malabar Church requested the state government to examine the orders coming from different departments turning Sundays into working days "repeatedly on the pretext of making decisions on pending files".

70,000 booklets on re-revised textbooks printed

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Text Book Society (KTBS) has completed the printing of 'errata' (booklet) of re-revised portions of revised textbooks approved by the state government. As many as 70,000 copies of these booklets have been printed and the process of distributing them to 70,000 schools across the state will be completed within a week, said KTBS MD Madegowda M P.

Meanwhile, after more than four months since schools reopened, the revised textbooks have been distributed to all schools, Madegowda said.

The Education Department had taken up the printing of the revised textbooks at a cost of over Rs 200 crore, and the additional cost of the re-revised portions runs into Rs 12 lakh.

The now scrapped Textbook Revision Committee, headed by Rohit Chakratheertha, had revised the social science textbooks of classes 6-10 and the Kannada textbooks of classes 1-10. However, following objections from various quarters to the changes made, the Education Department took up a re-revision of textbooks and made eight corrections. These corrections are printed in the errata.

One booklet will be issued to every school in the state. When the printing of textbooks will be taken up for the next academic year, the corrections made during re-revision will be included in the respective textbooks, an official said.

Meanwhile, lessons/poems of seven authors, who withdrew their permission to publish their work in the syllabus of Kannada textbooks of classes 6, 9 and 10 will be dropped from textbooks from next year, Madegowda said.

"After receiving letters from authors demanding that their work be dropped from the syllabus, we wrote to them twice, requesting them to reconsider their decision. Since they did not agree, we have decided to drop their work," he added.

Court orders seizure of assets from office

OBJECTING to the tax deduction from compensation amount, Sheela Dandekar moved the court.

Sheela, a native of Shankri Bagh, had lost her one acre of land in Arga village near Karwar in 1986 when the land acquisition process for the naval base began.

After several years of hearing, the court ordered that she should be awarded a compensation amount of Rs 10.65 lakh, including 15 per cent interest per annum, for the deducted amount.

The court also ordered seizure of movable assets from the office of the special land acquisition officer which included two vehicles and furniture.

However, when a team headed by advocate KR Desai, landed at the office to seize the property, no official was present.

"No officer is here. We tried calling them. There is no response. This amounts to irresponsibility. We came to execute the court orders. We will take whatever we find here and report to the court," KR Desai said.

BJP chief Nadda calls for 'BJD-mukt Odisha'

BIJOY PRADHAN @Bhubaneswar

BJP president JP Nadda on Friday called for a "BJD-mukt Odisha" to usher in good governance to the state. At the Sanyukta Morcha Sammelan (joint conference of seven frontal wings of the BJP) at Janata Maidan here for the second day, Nadda said a developed nation is not possible without the progress of the states. "To see a developed nation, we need to develop Odisha. For development of Odisha, we have to get rid of BJD. We must ensure a BJD Mukt Odisha," says Nadda picking from a popular phrase 'Congress Mukt Bharat' coined by PM Modi.

In a stinging attack on the BJD government, Nadda said corruption has spread to every sphere of the State administration and ministers with murder charges are given protection. "Here is a government which is appropriating all the Central schemes. The Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana is rebranded as as Biju Pucca Ghar Yojana. Kam kare koi aur waah waah leta hai koi (Someone is taking credit for another's hardwork and achievements)," he remarked.

Taking a jibe at the often repeated remarks of the Chief Minister that the BJD has no boss in Delhi, Nadda said, "Humara bhi koi boss Dilli mein nahi rehte - Dilli mein Pradhan Sevak rehte hain. (In Delhi, we don't have a boss but a chief servant, indicating Prime Minister Narendra Modi)."

Prez's hometown in Odisha to see 5G live test

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhubaneswar

PAHADPUR, the native village of President Droupadi Murmu in Mayurbhanj district, is agog with activities ahead of the much awaited launch of 5G service in the country on Saturday.

SLS Memorial Residential School, built by Murmu in memory of her departed husband and two sons, in Pahadpur village under Kusumi block is among four locations in four States selected for the live use case demo of the latest cellular technology.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is slated to roll out the 5G service from New Delhi at 10 am. Of the four use cases - health, education, agriculture and industry, there will be live demo for education at the residential school.

Sources said students of the school will be imparted education live from Mumbai through 5G internet service apart from getting connected with the Prime Minister who will be at India Mobile Congress (IMC) venue. The PM is also scheduled to interact with some students.

Elaborate arrangements have been made for launch of the new technology. Television monitors have been fixed separately for students and guests.

A tower connected with 5G fibre optics has been installed by Jio for the live demo.

With 5G service, the internet speed is said to be almost 10 times faster than 4G. The fifth generation cellular technology is expected to bring a revolution at the grassroots level. Both Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel are said to be the providers of the 5G service in the State.

Although during his recent visit to the State, Union Minister for Railways, Communications and IT Ashwini Vaishnaw had assured that 5G will be rolled out in Odisha in the first phase, the service may not be available in the entire State for immediate use.

Like 4G, the 5G services will also be rolled out in a phased manner. After the pilot testing in some selected cities, the service will be expanded to other parts, the sources added.

GIRD FOR SPILLOVER EFFECT OF FINANCIAL MARKET UPSETS

The RBI's latest 50 bps rate hike appears more in response to the US Federal Reserve's jawboning with super-sized rate hikes and less to do with domestic factors. That's not to say headline inflation is back to its best behaviour of sub-4%, and while households are forced to do the hard yards, the moot point is if we are past peak inflation. With RBI estimating the crude oil basket to average $100 per barrel in the second half of the fiscal, and if food inflation and global headwinds remain elevated, chances are price rise can have another nasty episode. If so, rate hikes will remain sharper, and the road to positive real rates gets even longer. In June 2019, when the policy shifted from neutral to accommodative, inflation was at 3%, the repo rate was at 5.75%, and liquidity was in deficit. Now, with surplus liquidity and projected inflation of 6.7%, monetary policy is deemed accommodative even though we are in a rate hike cycle. That said, if inflation moderates below 6% by next March, by which point the terminal rate is expected to be at 6.25–6.5%, real returns may turn positive, after all.

Though domestic factors drive monetary policymaking, global events too exert direct influence, as is evident now. The Fed's outsized rate hikes widened the interest rate differentials significantly, and further hikes could see capital flight, weakening rupee and increasing inflation. While RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das maintained that RBI doesn't target a specific level for the exchange rate, its actions vary from its stated position each time the rupee hits a new low. Of course, all central banks do that, but what's concerning is our depleting forex reserves, which Das assured was largely due to revaluation and not actual selling of dollars. Fair enough. But with the dollar at 20-year highs, if the currency market turmoil persists, it'll test RBI's mettle.

Lastly, we are yet to overcome the likelihood of a global recession, and fresh fears of global financial market turmoil due to aggressive monetary policy tightening are unsettling markets. India will likely escape any direct fallouts, but it must survive spillover effects. Accordingly, FY23 real GDP estimates are lowered to 7%, but as deputy governor Michael Patra noted, if major economies are worried about a hard landing, we are on the other side, ready for a takeoff. It also means RBI must ensure that high rates don't stifle growth later.

FEWER AWARDS WILL RUST SCIENTIFIC TEMPER

In one silent stroke, the Union government has decided to do away with over 200 awards, including scholarships, fellowships and internal awards for scientific excellence. This happened at a meeting on September 16 chaired by Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla to rationalise how selections are made and awards given in various sectors, including science and technology. The meeting, and the decision, follow Prime Minister Narendra Modi's directions to transform the ecosystem of awards by making the selection process transparent and objective. But it could be devastating for the scientific community.

The Department of Science and Technology (DST) has cut the number of awards from 207 to just four national awards. It is discontinuing private endowments, lecture-, scholarship- and fellowship-based awards, and internal awards. The prestigious Shanti Swarup Bhatnagar Prize, too, was not announced on September 26, as is the practice every year. It recognises outstanding Indian work in science and technology and is given to scientists under 45 engaged in research. The meeting suggested that these be replaced by awards of "very high stature". It called for instituting a 'Vigyan Ratna' on the lines of the Nobel Prize. The Centre has asked the Department of Space, Ministry of Earth Sciences, and Department of Atomic Energy to scrap all existing awards and institute new high-stature awards.

The intentions may be good, but how it has been brought about could shake up the scientific community. Fewer incentives and awards could demoralise the younger scientists. This comes when fewer youngsters are taking to basic scientific research while preferring high-paid jobs in various other sectors. It would only douse the scientific temper among young scientists while discouraging youngsters from taking to basic scientific research. Ironically, the decision coincides with calls from the scientific community and academicians to increase funding and incentives for scientific research in universities. Questions need to be raised about the Central government's intentions vis-à-vis the future of quality scientific and technological research in India. The ruling disposition at the Centre could do well to understand that 'scientific temper' is not ideologically linked. 'Kindling the scientific temper' was a clarion call that echoed across the country soon after India won independence. It is needed at all times with research raising the bar with every step we take into the future.

QUICK TAKE

WOMEN'S FINAL FRONTIER

Unmarried and minor girls can also independently decide to terminate unwanted pregnancies before 24 weeks. Society must come to terms with the Supreme Court ruling earliest for the historic decision to bear fruit. Women will initially need a support apparatus to exercise choice without apprehension. The next step is full body autonomy for women. They should own the uninhibited, unsupervised and unencumbered right to sex and conception. It calls for changed male attitudes, voluntarily or through legislation making marital rape a crime, encouraging women to refuse condom-less sex, and ensuring that men share the burden of contraception with women equally.

Poverty is complex and cannot be captured only through a head count ratio and percentage of individuals who cannot afford that minimum consumption basket

MORE ON THE INTRICACIES OF POVERTY IN INDIA

BIBEK DEBROY

Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the PM

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Information technology has wonderful uses, and there are huge pluses associated with the digital world. Therefore, I have received e-mails on the column published on September 19, Making sense of GDP growth and poverty. Years ago, these would have been in the form of letters to the editor, not all of which would have been published. When readers write in, a columnist is gratified. The gratification is greater when a column is read and understood, not merely glanced at.

Many years ago, I wrote a column on trade unions and labour laws. I was travelling that day, and a reader came up to me at the airport and said, "I greatly enjoyed your column today." I was flattered. Since another column had appeared in another newspaper that day, I asked, "On what?" This was a time when onion prices had skyrocketed, and he replied, "Onion prices." I was promptly deflated, but hopefully didn't show it, and nodded sagely (The other column wasn't on onions either).

The thrust of the September 19 column was, "There is no inconsistency in this. They measure different things." Specifically, readers have written in on what I said about poverty. What did I say? The last NSS consumption expenditure survey was held in 2011–12. The last Tendulkar poverty line is also for 2011–12. I had said, "My guess is—in the absence of data ... India's overall poverty ratio will be around 18% today." My guess, not my estimate.

In the absence of data, both the IMF and the World Bank (actually, authors who work in these organisations) made assumptions and tried to compute poverty ratios today. The IMF used the international poverty line, not the Tendulkar one. It also adjusted for gaps between NSS and national accounts and extrapolated. These are methodological differences, and any such finding wouldn't be comparable with what the poverty ratio would be, had NSS data existed today and had a Tendulkar poverty ratio been computed.

The World Bank used CMIE data. There are problems with CMIE data and with assumptions made in the World Bank paper (such as imputations), both acknowledged by the authors themselves. To state it bluntly, both the IMF and the World Bank made heroic assumptions because satisfactory data do not exist. I made no estimate. I guessed. We will know, one way or the other when proper data surfaces.

A column isn't meant to be a survey of literature—the kind you see in journals. Before commenting, I think it helps if readers read the column carefully and the papers (IMF, World Bank) they refer to in the course of comments. By the same token, many government (Union and state) schemes use deprivation criteria from SECC and decentralised identification of deprivation. Those deprivation criteria aren't the same as a head count ratio computed from a survey. Not only is one a census and the other a survey, but the poverty ratio, as defined by something like Tendulkar, isn't a variable in determining deprivation. It can't be. Deprivation has to be decided through a census, which is a complete enumeration. A survey based on a sample won't do. A survey only helps to understand trends.

Similarly, the National Food Security Act fixes a percentage of the rural population and a percentage of the urban population without any reference to any Tendulkar poverty ratio. Numbers are fixed in the statute.

To use the clichéd metaphor, the column was about an orange, while the readers' comments were about an apple. This is understandable since poverty has many dimensions.

Readers will recall the controversy that was created when Montek Singh Ahluwalia was Deputy Chairman of the former Planning Commission, and the poverty line was fixed at ₹32 per capita per day, on an average, since there are rural/urban and interstate differences in what the poverty line should be. That figure was the Tendulkar poverty line, originally computed for 2004–05 and then reapplied in 2011–12. Of course, it is a bare minimum required for subsistence, and as economies evolve, the perception of what is "bare minimum" also changes. That's the reason an expert group was set up under C Rangarajan to revisit the Tendulkar poverty line, and a report was submitted in 2014. This added some more items to the minimum consumption basket, and hence, poverty following the Rangarajan methodology was higher in 2011–12. However, the Rangarajan report was never officially accepted, and officially, the poverty line still remains the Tendulkar one. Perhaps one should mention SDG Goal 1, on reducing poverty, although all SDG timelines have been disrupted for all countries due to Covid-19. The SDG hierarchy has goals, distilled to targets, further distilled to indicators, so that movement towards goals can be measured.

As originally stated, Target 1.2 was, "By 2030, reduce at least by half the proportion of men, women and children of all ages living in poverty in all its dimensions according to national definitions." Indicator 1.2.1 was, "Proportion of population living below the national poverty line." To comply, one needs a national poverty line, and the head count ratio in 2030 should have become half of what it was in 2015. Niti Aayog monitors India's progress towards SDGs and quantifies poverty through a Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI). More on that later.

Right from the beginning, it was known that poverty is multidimensional and cannot be captured only through a head count ratio and percentage of individuals or households who cannot afford that minimum consumption basket. In the 1970s, there was a discussion about a Physical Quality of Life Index (PQLI), based on literacy rate, infant mortality rate and life expectancy. Following all that discussion, in 1990, UNDP launched a Human Development Report (HDR). Mahbub ul Haq and Amartya Sen were the driving forces behind this.

Over the years, HDRs have experimented with several measures—Gender-related development index (GDI), Gender Empowerment Measure (GEM), Human Poverty Index (HPI), Gender Inequality Index (GII), MPI and inequality-adjusted HDI (Human Development Index). HDI is at the core, and it has remained fairly robust. Unless readers write in about this column, the next one will be on HDI.

HIJAB PROTESTS AND THE IRONY OF MODESTY

PRATIK KANJILAL

Editor of The India Cable

SPEAKEASY

The irony of Iranian women agitating against the hijab and Indian schoolgirls insisting on wearing it has not gone unnoticed. It's no clash of civilisations, though—both are insisting on the right to be left alone. The real irony is that Indian opinionators, who should know better due to historical influences, apparently don't get the picture, and Iranians on the net are politely asking them to leave Iran alone.

But it's the New Yorker that has pushed the envelope, projecting New York activist Masih Alinejad as 'The Exiled Dissident Fuelling the Hijab Protests in Iran'. That's the headline of their thrilling story, and the claim is so bizarre that its subject, who did originate the White Wednesday online movement in 2017—it did not actually reject Islamic clothing—has had to clarify that the real leaders of the movement are, naturally, in Iran, not in NYC. Marjane Satrapi, the author of the bestselling graphic novel Persepolis, said that they were fighting for democracy, whose biggest enemy is the patriarchy.

That clear binary sets Indian observers apart from Iran. We have many more inequalities to address, almost all of which spring from patriarchy and its prominence in organised religion. Other nationalities find it difficult to understand that a thread looped over the shoulder can be a passport to power, opening doors everywhere and shutting them hard on the face of threadless people. They are alarmed to learn how easily that thread is exported to Silicon Valley and US university campuses, hidden under a T-shirt and hoodie. Cultural markers are rooted in a social context, and while we may understand what's going on with the hijab in Karnataka schools and why the matter has reached the Supreme Court, we don't really know of the context in Iran. How much could you possibly learn from watching Argo?

So let's leave the Iranians alone to interpret their movement as advised. It's obvious, though, that it will alter perceptions of modesty, the fluid, an undefined but universally understood notion which is behind all cover-ups. A senseless death at the altar of modesty moves the public powerfully and immediately. Mahsa Amini, 22, was picked up for keeping her hijab loosely tied, and in some days, she was dead. Hours later, protests broke out in which women cut their hair and burned their hijabs. Now, who knows how many are dead?

Real fires are being lit, unlike in the Sixties bra-burning, which was an urban legend that American feminists had tried hard to quash. The truth is that at a protest against a beauty pageant in New Jersey, women chucked their semiotically potent lipstick and high heels into a "freedom trash can", and then someone shucked her bra from under her shirt and threw it in, too. It wasn't set on fire, but the act lit a flame that refused to die out. Now, the movement against the headcloth is spreading much faster, leaping to The Levant and on to Europe.

> The Saudi moral police lost their powers when state violence caused deaths. People know that the gift of life is more valuable than the social construct of modesty

In collateral damage, Christiane Amanpour lost an interview with Iran President Ebrahim Raisi in New York. He had insisted that she wear a headcloth, as she would have had to do if the interview was held in Iran. She refused. Viewers wondered about the effect if she had agreed—and then taken the headcloth off during the interview. It would have rocked the TRPs, at least.

In the popular imagination, Saudi Arabia is the true home of Muslim modesty, but that's not true anymore. The hijab is legally prescribed only in Iran and Afghanistan. Saudi Arabia made it optional during the 2018 reforms of Crown Prince Salman (who was made prime minister on Wednesday), though it remains in universal use out of cultural inertia. The rest of the attire has changed. Girls wear abayas cut like robes in a kung fu movie, and it's fine.

The Saudi religious police, the Committee for the Promotion of Virtue and the Prevention of Vice or Mutaween, widely accepted as a positive force since the Seventies—they hunted down Barbie dolls, so they were politically correct, sort of—and enjoyed police powers, lost them when people died because of their actions, exactly like in Iran now. In a car chase, a father drove off a bridge with his family. In 2010, a man was severely punished for appearing in an amateur gay video. Fortune-tellers were tormented. Like the Indian loony right, the Mutaween became holy terrors on Valentine's Day. But the turning point was the 2002 girls' school fire in Mecca, in which the moral police physically beat fleeing girls because they were not modestly dressed, and 15 died.

Modesty has also taken a toll outside the Islamic countries. In 1943, in the St Joseph's Orphanage in Cavan, Ireland, nuns of the order of Poor Clares apparently precipitated a tragedy when a fire broke out at night, but they did not evacuate the premises because it would be indecent for the girls to be seen in their nightgowns.

The Saudi moral police lost their powers when state violence caused deaths. Their peers in Iran will go the same way, eventually. People instinctively know that the gift of life is more valuable than the social construct of modesty.

But modesty without frighteners invites satire. The Victorians were apparently such prudes that they clothed table legs in frilly, skinny-fit trousers for fear of inflaming the baser appetites, but that's another urban legend. It was originally a dig that the English naval author Captain Frederick Marryat (author of Mr Midshipman Easy for adults and The Children of the New Forest for kids) took at puritanical 19th century Americans he was visiting in A Diary in America. Incredibly, it rebounded on the English, and the Americans escaped unscathed, and the world now believes they're the ones liberating the world from prudery. That's irony for you!

End racism in India

Apropos of Ngurang Reena's Living through India's race and gender war (Sept 30). The author has wonderfully highlighted the ordeal that girls from India's northeast go through on a daily basis. It is sad that she also faced harassment solely because of her ethnicity. Anti-social elements who do this deserve the harshest punishment.

Kharge enters the race

Mallikarjun Kharge has filed his nomination for the post of Congress president. Despite claims that the Gandhi family will remain neutral, there is no prize for guessing who their favourite choice is between Kharge and Shashi Tharoor.

Celebrating womanhood

Gone are the colonial laws that fail to acknowledge the cruel act of marital rape. Apart from equal abortion rights for married and unmarried women, the landmark decision by the Supreme Court with regards to the MTP Act has also ruled that sexual assualt by a man on his wife can be termed as marital rape. This development is truly a triumph of womanhood.

PFI pays the price

The Kerala High Court's directive to PFI and its general secretary A Abdul Sathar to cough up ₹ 5.2 crore for the damage caused to KSRTC during the hartal is a good move. One hopes that fear has enveloped political parties, so that they think twice before venting their anger out on public property.

Govt must ban extremism

Apropos of Ban can cripple PFI but cannot efface its ideology (Sept 30). The raids, arrests, and the subsequent banning of PFI is a great decision taken by the Central government. Extremists who indulged in terrorist activities and influenced Muslim youths to adopt radicalism have shown that danger can be reared within the border. It is upto the government to ban all such groups so that India can be safe from danger.

Tithi Trivedi, Ujjain

Ban not effective

Apropos of Ban can cripple PFI but cannot efface its ideology (Sept 30). A mere ban will do little to keep such extremist elements at bay. They will just crop up in newer forms and wreak more havoc. And this dangerous ideology will flow across generations. In order to put an end to this, it is important to read between the lines and take stern actions to crush them slowly.

Temple appointments: SC seeks TN reply

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday sought response from Tamil Nadu government and Commissioner, Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Department, Tamil Nadu ("Commissioner") in a petition to restrain the state and commissioner from appointing government servants in the administration of temples.

A bench of Justices DY Chandrachud and Hima Kohli asked the petitioner, TN Ramesh to file an affidavit giving statistics of the temples where there are no trustees and temples where government has appointed trustees under the Tamil Nadu Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act, 1959 (1959 Act).

The bench also asked the state and the commissioner to file its response within 3 weeks. The court's order came in a petition which was filed by TN Ramesh challenging Madras HC's February 21, 2022 ruling of rejecting his petition where he had also sought to revert all the government employees working for administration of the non-hereditary temples. Senior Advocate CS Vaidyanathan and Advocates Sai Dipak and Shyamohan appeared for TN Ramesh.

Before the HC, he had also prayed for refunding the salaries, allowances and other perquisites that were paid to them from the temple funds. HC had rejected the petition while observing that no illegality was found in the action of transferring Government servants for administration of the temple "taking into consideration the peculiar circumstances".

"If we go hyper-technically, employees in the temple can be appointed only by the trustees and in the absence of trustees, no employee could have been appointed in any of the temples, thereby creating chaos in the administration of the temples," the HC had also observed.

Before the SC, it was argued that authorities under the 1950 act had not appointed trustees in about 19,000 non-hereditary temples in the State for more than eleven years. It was further asserted that creation of posts in the temples by the Commissioner and state would result in altering the characters of the temples.

"Commissioner by taking undue advantage had acted in connivance with the state government and had deputed Government servants (who do not possess requisite qualifications) without any authority or jurisdiction to do so, in addition to the Executive Officers already appointed for administration of these temples, for long periods.

Genuine candidates have been deprived of jobs," ASG SV Raju told the bench of Justices Aniruddha Bose and Vikram Nath. Vaccines saved hospitalised patients, prevented deaths, says ICMR study

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE Covid vaccines protected hospitalised patients and prevented deaths, according to the latest findings of the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) study based on hospital records. "COVID-19 vaccine, irrespective of its type, reduced the odds of dying by 50 percent with one dose and by 60 percent with two doses," said the study, which analysed around 30,000 patients in 42 hospitals, deep diving into records between September 1, 2020, and October 26, 20211. The study said around 4000 patients (14.5 percent) had died, while 23,294 (85.5 percent) were discharged. Out of 3,957 patients who died, 86 percent passed away within 14 days.

"More than half of the admitted patients (15922, 54 percent) required oxygen support during their hospital course, while 2307 (7.8 percent) required mechanical ventilation," said the study, which among its writers included former ICMR head Prof Balram Bhargava and Dr Samiran Panda, Additional Director General, ICMR and Head - Epidemiology and Communicable Diseases. The study also said that a marked increase is noticeable in the use of steroid, oxygen supplementation and remdesivir in May 2021, coinciding with the 2nd wave of the pandemic in India, which was dominated by the Delta variant. The use of hydroxychloroquine (HCQ) considerably declined after September 2020, while the use of convalescent plasma has been low throughout, the study added. The study's results showed that odds of dying were significantly high in patients with a mean age of 60 having chronic diseases.

Chavan endorses Kharge's seniority, track record

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

REFUTING the existence of the ginger group G-23, senior Congress leader and former Maharashtra Chief Minister Pritviraj Chavan said that Shashi Tharoor's decision to contest for the post of Congress president was a unilateral one and he hadn't consulted the leaders before joining the race. Speaking to this paper, Chavan said, "After Tharoor made up his mind, he could have called up and discussed with us. We may have explored possibilities. If Tharoor had consulted us, I don't know whether we would have accepted it or not. What we would have done is a different matter," said Chavan.

Chavan and Tharoor are among the leaders who were part of the ginger group known as G-23, who wrote to the Congress leadership demanding sweeping reforms in the party two years back.

As the picture of Congress presidential election became clearer on Friday with Lok Sabha MP Tharoor and veteran leader Mallikarjun Kharge emerging as main contenders, the most surprising move came from G-23 leaders, including Manish Tewari and Chavan who endorsed Kharge, who is widely seen as the official candidate.

Explaining his reasons for backing Kharge, Chavan said

After Tharoor made up his mind, he could have called up and discussed with us. We may have explored possibilities. If Tharoor had consulted us, I don't know whether we would have accepted it or not. What we would have done is a different matter that a group of leaders including him, in a late night meeting on Thursday, decided that if the party put up a solid candidate, they would endorse him. "Kharge is a senior leader with a long and credible electoral track record. Kharge and I have worked closely together. There is no question of contesting for the sake of politics or opposing for the sake of opposing," he said, adding that after Kharge's candidature was decided, the leader requested for support over phone.

Prthviraj Chavan, Congress leader

Chavan also said that after Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot opted out of the race, the leadership considered Mukul Wasnik, but he chose not to contest. "We were happy to endorse Gehlot or Wasnik, but they chose to opt out," he said.

Responding to Tharoor's comments that 'Kharge is a candidate of continuity', Chavan said that Gandhi family is an asset to the party and it's within their right to become part of the consultative process or the members of the working committee. "Rahul Gandhi is trying to mobilise the party in his own way. He was always welcome to contest the election. If he contests, then he is morally obligated to become a full time president," he said.

When pointed out about the arguments that Kharge is a loyalist of the Gandhi family and the High Command's dominance will prevail despite the election, Chavan said, "How could you presuppose that the election is in the best interests of the party?"

Many leaders, including Tewari, have demanded a "free and fair' electoral process and have written to Congress Central Election Authority Chairman Madhusutan Mistry on the same. Talking about transparency in the election process, Chavan said that it's unfair to draw conclusions before the election process is concluded. "Let's not forget that elections are being held after 22 years by casting ballots. There should be proper selection of the AICC members from among the delegates. After the Congress president is elected, there should be election of the Working Committee, as it happened 22 years back. Why should we say that it cannot happen or it cannot be decentralised?" asked Chavan.

He also expressed hope that Tharoor wouldn't opt out of the race. "Tharoor made a very important point that there is a democracy in the party. Why should we even try to see that there should be unanimous selection? Tharoor may actually get more votes than many people think," he said.

Chavan also said that G-23 was a figment of imagination of the media and the group of leaders were vilified by a section for seeking reforms.

"Two years back, when we wrote a letter , the main demand was that the Congress should have a full time President and there should be an election for the post of President. Mrs Gandhi called us for a meeting after four months and discussed the issues threadbare. She accepted all our demands and I have thanked her for that," he said.

PM says new cities will fast-track India's growth path

Flags off a slew of projects, including Ahmedabad Metro & Vande Bharat Exp, while underlining need to continuously modernise cities

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi said on Friday that new cities were coming up in the country as per global business demand with a focus on improving and expanding old towns. "India of the 21st century will get a new momentum from its cities," he said.

The PM laid the foundation stones and inaugurated a slew of projects, including the much-awaited Phase-I of Ahmedabad Metro Project and Vande Bharat Express.

He underlined the role of cities like Ahmedabad, Surat, Vadodara, Bhopal, Indore, and Jaipur in ensuring the developed status of the country in the coming 25 years.

The PM was addressing a gathering in Ahmedabad after inaugurating Phase-I of the Ahmedabad Metro project at a public function in the city. He also took a metro ride. The PM then flagged off Gandhinagar-Mumbai Vande Bharat Express at Gandhinagar station and traveled by the train.

Calling speed an important factor in development, Modi said the system of transport should be modern with seamless connectivity.

"India of the 21st century will be getting a new momentum from the cities of the country. With the changing times, it is necessary to continuously modernize our cities," he said.

Modi pointed out that the city's transport system should have seamless connectivity where one mode of transport supports the other. This is necessary," Modi said.

"India considers speed an important factor for development, which is reflected in the Gati Shakti National Master Plan for multi-modal connectivity," he added. Citing the success of Ahmedabad-Gandhinagar, the PM elaborated on the success of twin-city development concept.

"Gandhinagar and Ahmedabad are excellent examples of how twin cities are developed. The base for the development of many twin cities in Gujarat is being prepared. So far, we have heard of New York-New Jersey as twin cities. India cannot lag behind. You can see the model of Ahmedabad-Gandhinagar developing as twin cities," he said.

Modi said the Vande Bharat Express would reduce the travel time between Ahmedabad and Mumbai from eight to five-and-a-half hours. "Gradually, more improvements will be made in the train," he said.

The PM praised the soundproofing in the Vande Bharat Express where the noise of the moving train is reduced to a hundredth in comparison with an airline. #

Talking about the Ahmedabad Metro, the PM said that for the first time a 32-km stretch has been operationalized in one go in the history of Metro in the country. He praised the fast-paced completion of the project despite the challenges posed by construction of a Metro track over a railway line.

The Prime Minister highlighted that the government launched the FAME scheme to manufacture and operate electric buses to avoid pungent smoke of the fuel. "The Centre has spent about ₹3,500 crore on electric buses. More than 7,000 electric buses have been approved in the country under this scheme," Modi said.

Later, the PM inaugurated various projects worth ₹7,200 crore in Ambaji in Banaskantha district, and offered prayers at Ambaji temple.

Comma-less tweet by Mishra creates flutter

A purported punctuation error in a tweet by state Home Minister Narottam Mishra recently fuelled speculations about the likelihood of a new CM for MP in the near future. On September 20, Mishra tweeted about CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan briefing the cabinet about PM Modi's October 11 visit to Ujjain, but didn't use comma to separate 'Cabinet baithak se purv' and 'mukhya mantri'. It prompted the Congress to surmise that Mishra has mentioned 'purv mukhya mantri' which means former CM. Surprisingly, even after 10 days of making the comma-less tweet, Mishra didn't bother to add comma in the September 20 tweet.

Kamal Nath's moods on Congress prez polls

Two days, and two different moods were visible on the face of state Congress president Kamal Nath over the party's presidential polls. On Wednesday, he was visibly upset when asked in Bhopal whether he will be contesting. When repeatedly asked whether Digvijaya Singh was worthy of becoming party's next president, Nath's reply was, "Go and ask Singh, why are you asking me." But two days later, after Singh announced in Delhi that he will not be in the race, Nath smilingly said in Bhopal that the former had rung him Thursday evening to inform him of his decision, and that instead would be among Mallikarjun Kharge's proposers.

Congress targets BJP leaders over top posts

A Lok Sabha member and a BJP MLA from MP have kicked up a row with the appointment of their representatives in their constituencies. While Satna MP Ganesh Singh has appointed brother Umesh Pratap Singh as sansad pratinidhi for the Satna zila panchayat in his constituency, Shivnarayan Singh, a second-time MLA from the Bandhavgarh-ST seat of Umaria has appointed Shambhulal Khattar (father-in-law former nagar palika chairperson of Umaria) as his representative for the nagar palikain Umaria. The twin appointments have prompted Congress to question BJP on its much-hyped zero tolerance on nepotism credentials.

J'khand teacher thrashes Class VI students for not dancing properly, arrested

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

A teacher has been arrested in Jharkhand for beating up Class VI students with wooden canes after locking them inside a classroom for not dancing properly.

Thirteen students of Saint Michael's English Medium School in Gumla, who were thrashed by their teacher, Vikas Tiril Ekka, had to be admitted to the local community health centre. They were discharged after first-aid.

Ekka was arrested on Thursday evening after the parents and other local residents staged a protest. The parents said that they approached the school principal, but no action was taken against the teacher.

The injured students said the incident took place on Wednesday, when Ekka got annoyed with them for not dancing properly during the preparations for a cultural programme.

"While he was beating us, the teacher broke four canes but he did not stop. He kept on slapping and punching us till he got exhausted," the children said in a written complaint submitted to the block development officer (BDO).

While he was beating us, the teacher broke four canes but he did not stop. He kept on slapping and punching us till he got exhausted

Complaint by children submitted to the block development officer

"The BDO submitted a report in this regard on the basis of which the Deputy Commissioner (DC) recommended lawful action against the teacher. An FIR was then lodged against him," Gumla Superintendent of Police Ehtesham Waquarib said.

"The accused teacher has been sent to jail," said Ashutosh Kumar Singh, the officer in charge of Chainpur police station.

According to Singh, the students were beaten up for not dancing properly which led to the cancellation of the cultural programme that was scheduled to be organised on Thursday. "Prima facie, it appears that the children were assaulted brutally by wooden canes," he added. "All the 13 children are aged around 14 years. The injured students include hostel residents," Singh said.

The school principal too said that Ekka beat up the students in anger after the programme got cancelled.

Uddhav, Shinde & potshots on Dussehra rally teasers

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA Chief Minister Eknath Shinde and the Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena released the teasers for their respective Dusshera Melava events (rallies) by taking potshots over loyalty and the Hindutva ideology against each other. Uddhav's rally is scheduled to be held on October 5 at Shivaji Park while the Shinde faction will hold the event on the same day at BKC, Bandra.

Both the factions of the Shiv Sena claim that they will pull mega crowds to their rallies. Shinde's Dusshera Melava teaser starts with Bal Thackeray's voice saying that the flags of Chhatrapati Shivaji, Shiv Sena and Hindu religion will continue to fly high, with echoes of Jai Hind, Jai Maharashtra and Vande Mataram playing against a background of the chief minister's photo.

The teaser also says, "One leader…one party, one ideology…one aim…one Nath (Eknath Shinde)." It shows a picture of Bal Thackeray, Anand Dighe and Shinde in the background.

On the other hand, Uddhav's teaser starts with background music playing against the images of a saffron flag, a tiger, the bow and arrow symbol of Shiv Sena, besides Bal Thackeray's portrait. Uddhav is then seen saying that a sea of loyal people will assemble at their rally. "The saffron flag will be unfurled at Attock in Pakistan… The strength of Maharashtra will be displayed," he says. The video also shows an old rally at Shivaji Park. While Shinde's teaser focuses on Hindu ideology, Uddhav has kept the concept of loyalty at the centre stage. The reference to Attock has been made since the Marathas were able to capture the territory till there.

Both the videos, released in Marathi, made big claims about the expected turnout. Uddhav-led Shiv Sena says it will get 1-1.5 lakh attendees, while Shinde's group puts the number to 2 lakh. Shinde's rally is being planned at MLAs from Shinde's camp are offering a free ride in air-conditioned buses to people for attending the rally.

According to Naresh Mhaske, the spokesperson of Shinde's faction, those who want to witness Hindutva's call will attend Shinde's rally. "We released the first teaser of our Dusshera Melava and got an overwhelming response. It will be a historic rally under the leadership of Eknath Shinde," Mhaske said.

Meanwhile, Sushma Andhare, the spokesperson of Uddhav's camp, said, "There is no relation between money-minded people and loyalty, and Shinde camp's teaser makes no reference to loyalty." Adding that Shinde's group has been offering air-conditioned buses, trains and meals in five-star hotels to attract people, she said, "Our Shiv Sainiks will eat their own food, walk on foot and come to listen to Uddhav Thackeray. We are loyal people, we don't need to offer any luxury services to our people."

Need to felicitate loyal workers to 'soothe resentment', says Abhishek

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

IN a bid to ease out disgruntlement among the loyal and old foot-soldiers of the Trinamool Congress (TMC), the party's national general secretary Abhishek Banerjee has issued a directive for organising get-together events in every block after Dussehra to felicitate the workers at the grassroots level.

The instructions issued by Banerjee said that no turncoats will be on the list of those who will be felicitated.

The move is said to be an effort to pacify the party's workers who have expressed their unhappiness on several occasions over the importance given to those who joined the TMC from other parties, especially from the BJP.

"Banerjee has asked for felicitation of at least 500 party workers in each block. They will be picked from the booth-level structure of the organisation. Only those workers who joined the party before 2011 and played key roles in the historic Assembly elections that derailed the 34-year Left Front regime in 2011 will be selected," said a senior TMC leader.

Abhishek Banerjee

According to the directive, the felicitation events will have to be completed between October 11 and October 22 in all the 294 Assembly constituencies. "Panchayat samitis or zila parishads will organise the events in the constituencies, which the TMC failed to bag in the 2021 Assembly polls. The entire felicitation event will have to be recorded on video and sent to Banerjee's office in Kolkata," the leader added.

In the instructions, Banerjee, the second-in-command in the TMC and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's nephew, made it clear that collecting contributions from common people for the programmes will not be allowed.

"He, however, did not mention where the money for organising the events will come from," another leader of the ruling party said. Rift between the old workers and newcomers in the TMC has emerged prominently on several occasions. "Banerjee's decision of acknowledging loyal workers aims to ease out the disgruntlement among them," the leader added.

Women take centre stage at this Ram Leela

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

IN the season of Ram Leelas, an all-woman ensemble has tried to break yet another glass ceiling in Mohali's Zirakpur, near Chandigarh. The group of 32 women artists in the age group of 14 to 77 years is taking part in the Ram Leela after 25 days of rehearsals. They were into their fifth day of a three-hour show on Friday.

The ensemble includes social activists, lawyers, an architect, bankers, professors, students and housemakers. Their objective: sensitise people to their cultural roots, traditions and ethics.

The response has been very enthusiastic among the performing artists, says former councillor from Zirakpur, Ekta Nagpal, who is the brain behind the unique initiative.

"The idea of women empowerment led me to come up with this Ram Leela. The larger message also includes linking the youth to our culture," says Nagpal. Seven students are also a part of the group.

"It was really tough to get all women on one platform. However, when they heard about the concept, they accepted it. Before the actual performance beginning Sept 26, we conducted rehearsals for 25 days," says Nagpal.

She says the audience response has been overwhelming. "The seating capacity is for around 700 people, but people are coming in hordes to watch our performance," she said.

The group has kept the show on a moderate scale. It is a digital show with a giant screen in the background and light & sound arrangement in place. The dialogues have been dubbed in a studio. Nagpal says the estimated budget is around ₹22 lakh. However, the group has been able to arrange only ₹10 lakh, requiring each of them to pitch in with individual contributions.

Kulwant Kaur Sandhu, an advocate in the Punjab and Haryana High Court, is playing the character of Kumbhkaran. She says as soon as she was told about the idea, she latched on to it as she found a good cause in it. "The dresses were bought and altered to fit and not rented. Therefore, the budget went above our expectations," she says.

Financial adviser Pratibha Singh plays the role of Lord Ram, Ekta's 14-year old daughter Jahnhvi and 77-year-old mother Krishana Juneja can be seen in the roles of Angad and Kaushalya respectively. Sunita Shekhar, a homemaker, plays three roles while Archna Gupta, owner of a boutique, plays the role of Vibhishan and Monika Saini of Parashuram. Madhavi, a class XII student, is playing the role of Sita and Vandana Sharma, an architect, acts as Hanuman. Anuradha, a professor, is Bharat besides Kulwant Kaur and Khushboo -- both wellness coaches -- are playing other significant roles.

Housing sales to take a hit post rate hike

While SBI is offering home loans at 8.05-8.55%, HDFC Bank's interest on same vary between 8.10% and 9.05%

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE RBI's decision to hike repo rate by 50 basis points (bps) doesn't augur well for the Indian housing market, especially during the festive season when consumers don't shy away from making big ticket purchases.

According to Anuj Puri, Chairman of ANAROCK Group, home loans will get dearer soon and this could impact residential sales to some extent this festive quarter, particularly in the affordable and mid-range housing segments. ANAROCK's recent Consumer Sentiment Survey also highlighted that at least 61% respondents saw high inflation as a major concern for them, seriously impacting their disposable incomes. Shishir Baijal, Chairman & managing director, Knight Frank India, says a rise in home loan rates will further impact affordability across the markets and this might slowdown homebuying decisions for a short-to-medium term. The fresh 50 bps hike takes the total rate hike since May 2022 to 190 bps. Interest on home loans offered by commercial banks has seen a steep hike in the last 4 months.

While the country's largest lender SBI is offering home loans at rates ranging between 8.05% and 8.55%, HDFC Bank's interest on home loans vary between 8.10% and 9.05%.

According to analyses by JLL India, after Friday's 50 bps repo rate hike, home loan interests may go up by at least 20-30 bps. This will be over and above the 80bps average hike in home loan interest rates that homebuyers have faced since May, taking the total hike to 100-110 bps, JLL noted. "With today's hike in repo rate, the revised home loan EMI would increase by an average of 8-9% as against 6 months back. The continuous rise in home loan EMI is hence expected to act as a sentiment disruptor," said Samantak Das, chief economist and head of research and REIS, India, JLL. Ramani Sastri, Chairman & MD, Sterling Developers, said due to consecutive rate hikes, home-buyers might adopt the wait-and-watch sentiment. "Subsequent rate hikes will also mean a deterioration of affordability as low interest rates have been the biggest factor in the resurgence for real estate demand in the last few years," added Sastri.

According to JLL India, home loan interests may go up by at least 20-30bps after the 50bps repo rate hike

Housing sales pick up in July-Sept quarter

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

HOUSING sales witnessed a robust growth in the third quarter of calendar year 2022 (Q3CY22) despite existing challenges like rising property prices, rising interest rates and the inauspicious 'shraadh' period.

As per Anarock estimate, 88,230 units were sold in Q3 2022 in the top 7 cities – a marginal increase of 4% over Q2 2022 but a 41% jump annually. Like before, Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) led the demand for housing units; followed by Delhi NCR, Bengaluru, Pune and Hyderabad. MMR witnessed the highest sales of nearly 26,400 units among the top 7 cities, followed by NCR with nearly 14,970 units.

According to a Knight Frank India report, the residential market remained resilient in the leading 8 residential markets of India with 2,32,396 home unit sales in 9M CY2022. This is a 40% increase from 1,63,426 residential volume sales in a stable repo rate environment of 9M CY2021. As per Knight Frank estimate, the residential sector saw an annual growth of 15% in Q3 2022 to 73,691 housing units across top eight cities in the country from 64,010 in Q3 2021. This is a 20% rise regarding the quarterly average sales observed during the prepandemic times of 2019. "If inflation remains at elevated levels forcing RBI to aggressively increase interest rates, there might be some turbulence in the market," said Anuj Puri, Chairman - ANAROCK Group.

JAPAN

SPENT RECORD $20 BN ON INTERVENTION TO SUPPORT YEN

Japan spent a record 2.8 trillion yen ($19.7 billion) intervening in forex market last week to prop up the yen, Ministry of Finance data showed on Friday, draining nearly 15% of funds it has readily available for intervention. The figure was less than the 3.6 trillion yen estimated by Tokyo money market brokers for Japan's first dollar-selling, yen-buying intervention in 24 years to stem the currency's sharp weakening. The ministry's figure, indicating total spending on currency intervention from Aug. 30 to Sept. 28, is widely believed to have been used entirely for Sept. 22 intervention. It would surpass the previous record for dollar-selling, yen-buying intervention in 1998 of 2.62 trillion yen. Confirmation on the dates of the spending will be released in November. "This was a big burst of intervention, if it had happened on a single day, underscoring Japanese authorities' determination to defend yen," said Daisaku Ueno, chief forex strategist at Mitsubishi UFJ Morgan Stanley Securities. "But the impact of further intervention will diminish as long as Japan continues to intervene solo," he said.

SOUTH KOREA

PRESIDENT YOON CALLS FOR VIGILANCE OVER MARKETS

South Korean President Yoon Suk-yeol called on Friday for more urgency in dealing with turbulent markets as the won's fall to a 13-1/2-year low heightened fears of capital flight. He made the remarks at a meeting of economic officials as a weekly opinion poll found his approval rate fall to 24 percent, the lowest level since he took office six months ago. "We have built a stronger breakwater than in the past in terms of external soundness and already implemented market stabilizing measures, but it is time to deal with the situation with a sense of more urgency," Yoon said at the beginning of the meeting. It appeared to be indicating imminent intervention in markets and dealers suspected the authorities of "carrying out smoothing operation" of modest intervention, but there was no talk of massive intervention on Friday. The won managed to end the day's onshore trading 0.6 percent higher versus the dollar but suffered a 6.47 -loss for the month of September, marking the worst month since September 2011, as a souring in risk appetite hit South Korean assets.

SINGAPORE

TIGHTENS HOUSING LOAN LIMITS AS RATES RISE

Singapore has unveiled a package of measures for the property market, including tightening lending limits for housing loans in response to a rise in interest rates, as well as new steps to moderate demand. The move would ensure "prudent borrowing" and "avoid future difficulties" in servicing home loans, said Singapore's central bank, the Ministry of National Development and the Housing & Development Board in a joint statement late on Thursday. The measures - including lowering the amount of government loans available to buy public housing by 5 percentage points - were announced late on Thursday and came into effect from Friday. The interest rate floor used in bank loan calculations has also been raised, reducing the amount of lending a person can obtain in relation to their income level when buying from either the public or private property market. OCBC economist Selena Ling said the steps should "dampen any exuberance and slow the pace of price appreciation". The measures would have less impact on foreign investors as they are more attuned to the global interest rate situation or less dependent on loans, Ling said. The new measures are mainly targeted at the "overheated" resale public housing market, said Christine Sun, senior vice president of research & analytics at OrangeTee & Tie.

RBI

Forex reserves decline by another $8 billion

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AMID the concerns raised over the shrinking forex reserves, the RBI Governor has said two-third of the fall in India's forex reserve during the current financial year is due to valuation changes arising from an appreciating US dollar and higher US bond yields.

Shaktikanta Das said in a statement while unveiling the RBI's bimonthly monetary policy that India's foreign exchange reserve stood at $ 537.5 billion as of September 23, 2022, down from $545 billion a week ago. However, Das said forex reserve was favourably placed compared with most peer economies. Das added that the forex reserve is adequate. At $537.5 billion, India's forex reserve covers for just over 8 months of imports. Forex reserves comprise 90% of foreign currency assets and the rest is gold and special drawing rights (SDRs) with the IMF. As per experts, the drop in reserves recently was largely due to plunge in valuation of major reserve currencies -- Euro, Pound sterling and Swiss Franc etc – against the US dollar. On the issue of RBI's intervention on the exchange market to support the local currency, Das said rupee is a freely floating currency and its exchange rate is market determined. He said the RBI doesn't have any fixed exchange rate in mind. "It (RBI) intervenes in the market to curb excessive volatility and anchor expectations," he said. As per Das, during the current financial year (up to September 28), the US dollar has appreciated by 14.5% against a basket of major currencies but rupee has depreciated by 7.4% against the dollar.

Mkts gain about 2% despite repo rate hike

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India's in-line monetary policy action brought a sigh of relief in Dalal Street.

The benchmark indices, Nifty and Sensex, snapped their seven-day losing streak as the RBI delivered a 50 basis point repo rate hike and spoke highly about the resilience of the Indian economy against global headwinds.

The BSE Sensex closed the session at 57,427, up 1,017 points or 1.8%, while the NSE Nifty50 closed at 17,094, up 276 points or 1.64%. All sectors contributed to the move but it was banking and financials, which topped the gainers' list.

According to market experts, there was no change in inflation target of 6.7% for the fiscal 2023, there was a minor tweak in the growth rate from 7.2% to 7% for FY23 despite severe global headwinds and RBI maintaining its "withdrawal of accommodation" stance led to rally post the policy announcement. The fall in the dollar index and no negative surprise by the RBI also supported the Friday rally.

"RBI's commentary remains strong on fundamentals of Indian economy & they expect growth to re-bound in India ahead of its peers," said Ashish Chaturmohta, Director and Head, Advisory Research - JM Financial Services.

Chaturmohta added that WTI crude have correcting sharply by nearly 30% from 120$ to 82 $ at present and non-oil commodities correcting by more than 20% in past few months bodes well for Indian economy & inflation outlook.

"This along with China +1 theme is extremely positive for Indian Economy. The upcoming festive & earnings season is likely to lift market sentiments with consumption stocks likely to stay in focus," he said.

Sampath Reddy, chief investment officer, Bajaj Allianz Life Insurance, said the RBI may be nearing the end of the rate hike cycle in India and future rate hikes will have more to do with supporting the Indian currency and also to some extent the inflation trajectory.

Both equity and bond markets have taken this in a positive stride and have rallied post the policy announcement, added Reddy. However, Yes Bank economists believe RBI may again increase rate by 35 bps in December 2022 and further by 25 bps in February 2023.

Government-backed e-commerce platform ONDC goes live in Bengaluru

GOVERNMENT'S ambitious open network e-commerce platform, the Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC), started its beta testing process with small retailers across 16 pincodes in Bengaluru on Friday.

As per government sources as many as 497 sellers, and 17 apps were live on the platform on the first day of its going live. As many as 100,000 products were listed on the platform on the first day across grocery, and food and beverages categories. Currently, only these two categories of products are available on the platform. Sources further said till 5:30 pm on Friday, 161 orders were placed on the network, 59 orders were delivered and the rest were in the process of delivery. Of those 161 orders, 55% were for grocery products and 45% in the food and beverages category. It is an initiative of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. Anil Agarwal, additional director, Department of Promotion of Industries and Internal Trade (DPIIT), told TNIE the government is in the process of validating the technologies and processes and the focus is now on fulfillment of orders on the platform. The platform will host buyer and seller apps separately, unlike e-commerce platforms like Amazon and Flipkart, which are both buyers and sellers platforms. Three buyers apps – Paytm, Spicemoney and Mystore – were on the platform on the first day of the beta testing. As many as 11 seller apps, which are aggregators of small retailers and kirana stores, also integrated with the system on the first day. Apart from them, Dunzo, Loadshare and Shiprocket were the logistics service providers.

Sources said 20 more apps and 570 sellers will soon become part of ONDC platform. Dilip Vamanan, co-founder of seller onboarding platform SellerApp said they have onboarded 31 kirana stores, 12 D2C Brands, 5 CPG brands and the responses from the sellers were amazing.

Vodafone Idea in talks with Indus Towers for softer payment terms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DEBT-LADEN Vodafone Idea (Vi) said it is in discussions with Indus Towers to clear its pending dues with softer payment terms.

The statement from the telco comes after Indus Tower, in a letter, asked Vi to clear its dues or lose access to towers. The firm owes ₹7,000 crore to Indus Towers and ₹2,000 crore to American Tower Corporation. "In connection with the above, we wish to inform that Indus Towers is one of the large vendors who provides passive infrastructure services to the company. The firm has been in discussion with Indus for softer payment terms, which are continuing, but have not been concluded as yet," said the company in an exchange filing. As Vi is the second-largest customer of Indus Towers after Bharti Airtel, losing access to towers may affect telecom services provided by the telco. It may also impact its plans to launch 5G wireless services in the country. Vi has been struggling on the financial front and has failed to raise fund. Its board in 2020 had approved a plan to raise ₹25,000 crore but has only been able to raise close to ₹5,000 crore so far, that too from promoters.

Vi dues to Indus Towers

Vi owes ₹7K cr to Indus Towers and ₹2K crore to American Tower Corporation. As Vi is the second-largest customer of Indus, losing access to towers may affect telecom services

Meanwhile, Indus Tower, in a post Q1 investor conference call in August said the customer (Vi) has proposed a payment plan wherein they have conveyed the ability to pay part of the billed amount till December 2022 and 100% thereafter along with clearance in a phased manner between January 2023 and July 2023 of the old dues that accumulated till December 2022. "We are engaged with the customer to work out a better payment plan, hence we expect to see gradual improvement in our trade receivables position that we will continue to monitor very closely," Indus Towers' CFO Vikas Poddar had told analysts.

PM to launch 5G at India Mobile Congress today

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA MODI will launch 5G technology in India on Saturday, October 1, at the sixth edition of India Mobile Congress in New Delhi.

The technology initially will be launched in select cities, later it will cover the entire country over the next couple of years. The government believes cumulative economic impact of 5G on India is expected to reach $450 billion by 2035.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi will launch 5G services in India on October 01, 2022, and also inaugurate the 6th Edition of India Mobile Congress 2022 (IMC-2022) to be held from October 1-4, 2022," said a government statement.

The launch of 5G services, the government said, follows years of intense preparation. Recently, the government conducted 5G spectrum auctions, in which 51,236 MHz was allocated to telecom service providers with a gross revenue of ₹1,50,173 crore.

The auction aggregated the demand for a robust 5G ecosystem that can cater to its use cases involving internet of things (IoT), machine to machine (M2M), artificial intelligence (AI), Edge Computing, Robotics etc.

Fiscal deficit touches 32.6% of annual target till Aug

NEW DELHI: The central government's fiscal deficit touched 32.6% of the annual target in the current financial year till August as against 31.1% recorded a year ago, according to official data released on Friday In actual terms, the fiscal deficit -- the difference between expenditure and revenue --- was Rs 5,41,601 crore during the April-August period of this financial year. Fiscal deficit is an indicator of the government's borrowings from the market. As per the data released by the Controller General of Accounts (CGA), the government's total receipts, including taxes, stood at Rs 8.48 lakh crore or 37.2 per cent of the Budget Estimates (BE) for 2022-23. During the year-ago period, the collection was 40.9 per cent of BE 2021-22. PTI

Govt increases natural gas price by 40%; CNG, PNG prices may go up

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE government on Friday raised the price of natural gas by 40%. Natural gas is used to generate electricity or fertiliser and turned into compressed natural gas (CNG).

This is the third increase in rates since April 2019 and the reason, the government said, is strengthening of energy prices in the global market. With this hike, rise in CNG and piped cooking gas rates in cities such as Delhi and Mumbai is imminent. However, it may also lead to rise in cost of generating electricity but common people may not bear the brunt as the share of power produced from gas is very low. At the same time, this price rise will not impact the cost of producing fertilisers, as the government subsidies the crop nutrient.

As per an order of Petroleum Planning and Analysis Cell (PPAC), a body of the Petroleum ministry, the rate paid for gas produced from old fields, which make up for nearly two-thirds of all gas produced in the country, was hiked to $8.57 per million British thermal units from the current $6.1. Similarly, the price of gas from difficult and newer fields like the ones in Reliance Industries and its partner bp plc operated deepsea D6 block in KG basin, was hiked to $12.6 per mmBtu from $9.92.

These are the highest rates for administered/regulated fields (like ONGC's Bassein field off the Mumbai coast) and free-market areas (such as the KG basin). The steep increase in gas prices is likely to reflect in higher rates for CNG and piped natural gas (PNG), which has in last one year risen by over 70%. The government sets the price of gas every six months on April 1 and October 1 each year based on rates prevalent in gas surplus countries such as the US, Canada and Russia in a year with a lag of one quarter.

India in MotoGP calendar for 2023 season

MotoGP on Friday confirmed that it will race in India from 2023, marking the return of a big ticket motorsport event in the country after Formula 1's departure nine years ago. The world's premier two-wheel racing championship will be held at the Buddh International Circuit, which staged Formula 1 from 2011 to 2013.

No stress fracture, but Bumrah's participation still not certain

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

FIRST, the good news. India are not yet ruling out Jasprit Bumrah's participation in the upcoming T20 World Cup in Australia. His test results have ruled out a stress fracture as initially feared. The 28-year-old, who continues to have discomfort in the back, is still weeks from regaining full fitness, but with adequate rest and a rehabilitation programme, there is a slim chance that he could be available for the later stages of the event.

The BCCI's medical team remains hopeful that Bumrah can recover quickly, provided there are no further setbacks. Stress reactions tend to get better with adequate rest, but in case a bowler goes through routine skill-based training, there are chances of the injury resurfacing.

It is why the BCCI and the Indian team management are not ruling out or confirming his availability for the T20 World Cup. They are set to depart for Perth on October 6, where they will have training sessions ahead of their practice match against New Zealand in Brisbane.

As things stand, it is not clear whether Bumrah would fly with the rest of the team on October 6. Since Bumrah has been advised rest and recovery process set to follow after a couple of weeks, in case he travels to Australia, it could lead to further complications. For instance, the pacer has to take a long flight and he has to be monitored separately from the rest of the group. Although India will be stationed in Perth for around 5-6 days, once the practice fixtures and the league stage gets underway, they will be travelling to Brisbane, Melbourne, Sydney, Perth and Adelaide. Such extensive flight travel isn't advisable for a player who has been told get adequate rest.

As a result, India are pondering whether to leave Bumrah at the care of BCCI medical head Nitin Patel at the National Cricket Academy. This would ensure Bumrah gets proper rest and he would be able to continue his recovery process without any travel break.

Given the nature of the injury, the Indian team management is unlikely to rush him. The only risk they are prepared to take is to still keep Bumrah in the squad of 15 and take a final call before the league stages begin. "The first game is still 22 days away. It is going to be a step-by-step process and if he resumes skill-based training by then, then the team could use him in the later stages of the World Cup. It all depends on how smooth the recovery process goes," sources familiar with the development told this newspaper.

With uncertainty surrounding Bumrah, India are planning to take Umran Malik and Mohammed Siraj as net bowlers for the T20 World Cup. Even the reserve pacers – Mohammed Shami and Deepak Chahar — will be travelling with the team to Australia. Other than Umran and Siraj, the BCCI is looking to send two more net bowlers. Reserve batter Shreyas Iyer will also travel with the team.

Injured wrist no problem for magnificent Mirabai

Manipur weightlifter lives up to billing, clinches top prize with ease

FIROZ MIRZA @Gandhinagar

GIVEN the fact that weightlifting competitions start within a day or two post the opening ceremony, weightlifter, S Mirabai Chanu, never gets an opportunity to be a part of the special occasion, be it the Olympics or the Commonwealth Games. The 2020 Tokyo Olympics silver medallist, however, on Thursday got a chance to make her debut at the opening gala and she didn't miss it. Given her progress since the last National Games in 2015, the lifter not only witnessed the glittering ceremony in person but also became the flagbearer for her state, Manipur.

"It's true I attended the opening ceremony for the first time and it really felt nice. Becoming flagbearer of Manipur and winning first gold for my state was icing on the cake," Mirabai told the mediapersons here in Gandhinagar after finishing on top of the podium in 49kg on Friday.

The 28-year-old former world champion has been head and shoulders above her competitors at the national circuit for some time and the same was on the display once again as she won the competition comfortably with only two attempts each in snatch and clean and jerk sections. Two-time CWG champion, K Sanjita Chanu, also from Manipur, finished second with Odisha's Sneha Soren bagging bronze.

Mirabai had finished behind Sanjita twice before eventually overpowering her at the Gujarat Games. She lost gold to Sanjita at the 2014 Glasgow CWG and finished second at the 35th National Games in 2015. Even Mirabai, who has bagged umpteen medals in the international events so far, looked overwhelmed with her first gold at the event.

"The Games are being held after seven years so I was very excited. What's more important is that I have also won my first gold in the event for Manipur."

She took a lead of 2kg over Sanjita after snatch section by lifting 84kg in her second attempt and then lifted 107kg in her second clean and jerk attempt to pocket the gold with an overall lift of 191kg. Sanjita lifted an overall weight of 187kg (82kg+105kg). Sneha lifted 169kg (73kg+96kg).

Well aware that she had already done enough to finish first, Mirabai didn't take third attempts in both the sections. The reason? She didn't want to put pressure on her left wrist, which had been injured a month back.

"I have been feeling the pain in my left wrist for the past one month. I think the injury happened because of lifting heavy loads. It was detected during an MRI scan. Because of the injury I didn't train properly and just to ensure that it does not aggravate further, I attempted only two lifts in both sections," the lifter said.

Speaking further on the nature of the injury, Mirabai said the pain has increased a bit in the last one week. "The pain has increased but I am in regular touch with my physiotherapist and doing all the exercises advised by him. I hope it will get alright in a week."

The World Championships scheduled in December this year is her next target and she doesn't want to leave any stone unturned for the event. "Worlds is my priority as it will also serve as a qualifying event for the 2024 Olympics. The 2022 Asian Games rescheduled for next year will be my next target. I couldn't compete at the 2018 Asiad due to back injury and next year, if I compete, I will make my debut at the event. I hope to win a medal for my country there as well," she signed off.

Meanwhile, Charu Pesi of Arunachal won gold in men's 61kg while Muna Nayak of Services Sports Control Board and Zakhuma of Mizoram bagged silver and bronze respectively in the same weight category.

Triathlon moved due to poor water quality

FIROZ MIRZA @Gandhinagar

> Sabarmati water was not found suitable for swimming. I raised the issue with the organisers after water was tested and found unfit. Surat and Porbandar were options but the organisers did not find them feasible after which the IIT Gandhinagar was finalised.
> — Rakesh Gupta, Indian Triathlon Federation vice-president

POOR water quality of Sabarmati river in Ahmedabad meant the triathlon event has been shifted to IIT Gandhinagar. Given the decision, the event will now consist of 750m freestyle swimming instead of 1.5km, cycling distance has been reduced to 20km from 40km while running has been halved to 5km. The triathlon competitions are scheduled to begin at the newly-designated venue on October 9.

It is also learnt that the Indian Triathlon Federation looked for other waterbodies in the state but because of a robust crocodile conservation project, there weren't too many options available. The events were finally moved to IIT Gandhinagar.

"Sabarmati water was not found suitable for swimming. I raised the issue with the organisers after water was tested and found unfit. Surat and Porbandar were options but the organisers did not find them feasible after which the IIT Gandhinagar was finalised," Rakesh Gupta, vice-president of the federation, told this daily.

Gupta replied in the affirmative when queried whether the crocodile conservation project was one of the reasons for not choosing other water bodies. He, in fact, affirmed that holding the Games at such a short notice is an achievement and other things do not hold importance. "At least the Games are being held after a gap of seven years. The Gujarat government got only three months to prepare for the event so making minor adjustments to make the event successful is not a big deal," he added.

Competition manager Harish Prasad, however, said he has no clue about the project being one of the reasons for choosing IIT Gandhinagar over other water bodies. "We have to do a water quality test ahead of the event but unfortunately Sabarmati water was not found fit for swimming. We waited for monsoon as usually fresh water fills in in the waterbody after rain but again the quality of water was not found suitable for swimming. After the second test, we immediately decided to shift the venue to IIT Gandhinagar."

He agreed that other options could have been explored but asserted that Gandhinagar being a part of a cluster of cities chosen to host the Games worked in its favour. "We were given an option and we suggested Porbandar as the national championship was conducted here in 2007 but it was not in the cluster. The authorities here in Gandhinagar even constructed a 5km road which will improve athletes' performance in terms of speed and time. It's literally a dead road, so we don't really need a lot of traffic management as well. Given the plus points, the venue is most suitable for triathlon," he added.

Speaking on the sprint distance chosen for the event, Prasad said, "It was the federation decision right from the beginning to do sprint distance and mixed relay super sprint. It has nothing to do with the change in venue." He also said that the sprint distance triathlon encourages more athletes to take up the sport and it's easy for the organisers as well as they don't have to manage traffic for a long period of time.

RoI test await Saurashtra

AGENCIES @Rajkot

CHETESHWAR Pujara would strive to stay relevant in the national team's scheme of things with a purposeful knock when Saurashtra clashes with Rest of India, a side that is packed with five specialist openers, in the Irani Cup clash starting in Rajkot Saturday.

While Madhya Pradesh are the 2021-22 Ranji Trophy champions, Saurashtra will be playing the Irani Trophy by virtue of being the 2019-20 champions as the one-off match wasn't held for successive seasons due to pandemic.

Gone are those days when the Rest of India versus Ranji champions' encounter used to be a virtual national team trial game where a good performance was a sure shot ticket towards an entry into the national dressing room.

An Irani Cup in 2022 is more about being in the scheme of things as far as reserve bench is concerned and majority of the Rest of India squad comprises of players, who have all featured in the recent A series against New Zealand.

The Saurashtra team has a battle-hardened pro in Pujara, whose Test career is at the crossroads and he wouldn't like to put a foot wrong before the away series in Bangladesh.

He has had a dream run for Sussex in both red ball and white ball (List A) games but whether the selectors will persist with him in Tests going forward is another matter.

But on his home ground where he has scored truckloads of runs, Pujara can prove to be more than a handful for the young speed guns like Umran Malik, Kuldeep Sen, Arzan Nagwaswalla or the upcoming spinners namely R Sai Kishore and Saurabh Kumar.

However the primary problem that Rest of India face is having too many openers -- all in-form in their squad of 15.

There is India 'A' pair of Priyank Panchal and Abhimanyu Easwaran that did well against New Zealand 'A' while Yashasvi Jaiswal was in regal form in the Duleep Trophy, scoring 265 in the final.

Then there is Test opener Mayank Agarwal who is trying to make a comeback and young Yash Dhull who has scored 770 runs in five first class games in his debut season.

CONTINENTAL TEST

Shift in focus as India brace for Asia Cup

GOMESH S @Chennai

THE analysis and opinion pieces are still coming. Podcasts and videos are being published, not to mention the buzz in social media on the side stories and nuances around what happened at Lord's last Saturday. As the debates continue, India women have moved on from the run out of England's Charlie Dean by Deepti Sharma at the non-striker's end. Not just physically, but mentally as well.

India skipper Harmanpreet Kaur said as much as they are all set to take on Sri Lanka in their opening game of the Asia Cup that begins in Sylhet, Bangladesh on Saturday. "The most important thing is to play within the rules. Whatever we did was very much in the rules. Whatever happened, it was not part of the plan but it has happened, we need to move on," said Harmanpreet in a press conference on Friday.

Harmanpreet & Co will open their campaign against Sri Lanka on Saturday

At some level it is also important to move on from the discussion as the focus shifts to the shortest format and India's preparation for the 2023 T20 World Cup. Till June next year, there are no ODIs in their schedule. They will play the Asia Cup, followed by the senior domestic T20 meet, a T20I series at home against Australia in December and a tri-series involving hosts and West Indies just before the marquee event in South Africa.

During the CWG and the England tour, they have often stuck to the playing XI through the series without testing the bench strength. For example, Sabbineni Meghana, who has been a part of every squad since the New Zealand tour (World Cup as a standby), has played just two T20Is through her time in England. That the seven-team event in Bangladesh will be played in the round-robin format with top two teams progressing to the semifinals means India will get to play a maximum of eight games. Which is why, the team management is keen on giving opportunities to those who has not get enough game-time so far

"Definitely, there are a lot of areas where we want to work on as a team. Especially, how we are going to use the first six overs (while batting). We will try to shuffle our middle order so that others can also get some time. In the last overs also, we have some hard hitters, so if we can give them enough chances... In our bowling, we will try different combinations. This tournament is important for us, it's a great platform where players who haven't got chances can come and perform. If they perform here, they can get a lot of confidence going into the World Cup," said the 33-year-old.

MENDING FENCE

NATO-bound Sweden lifts arms embargo on Turkey

STOCKHOLM

WOULD-BE NATO member Sweden on Friday announced it will allow exports of arms to Turkey, which had threatened to block the Scandinavian nation's application to join the 30-member defence alliance.

The decision means that Sweden, which has sought NATO membership along with neighbouring Finland, will lift an arms embargo it had imposed on Ankara in 2019 in the wake of Turkey's military operation against the Kurdish militia known as the YPG in Syria.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan had threatened to block the Nordic pair's membership, insisting they change their stance on Kurdish rebel groups that Turkey considers terrorists and lift the arms embargo on Turkey.

The alliance operates by consensus so Turkey needs to approve Sweden's application.

"Sweden's application for membership in NATO greatly strengthens the defence and security policy reasons for granting the export of military equipment to other member states, including Turkey," the Inspectorate for Strategic Products, a Swedish administrative authority, said in a statement.

Once-neutral Finland and Sweden are abandoning what in Sweden's case has been more than 200 years of military nonalignment, driven to join NATO's mutual defence pact in the wake of Russia's invasion of Ukraine and its continuing war there.

Turkey's parliament has yet to ratify Sweden and Finland's membership in NATO, and Friday's step was widely seen as aimed at securing Ankara's approval.

A delegation from Sweden is expected in Ankara next week to discuss Turkish requests for the extradition of figures wanted by Turkey. AFP

Putin vows to use any means to defend annexed lands

The nuclear-backed threat comes as he signed treaty annexing four Ukrainian regions in biggest land grab since WW II

MOSCOW

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin vowed to protect the newly annexed regions of Ukraine by "all available means," a nuclear-backed threat at a Kremlin signing ceremony where he also railed at the West.

In his speech, Putin urged Ukraine to sit down for peace talks but immediately insisted he won't discuss handing back occupied regions keeping him on a collision course with the Ukrainian government and its Western backers that have rejected his land-grab.

In a Kremlin ceremony at the ornate St George's Hall to herald the annexation of the occupied parts of Ukraine, Putin accused the West of fueling the hostilities as part of what he said is a plan to turn Russia into a 'colony' and a 'crowds of slaves'. The hardening of his position, in the conflict that has killed and wounded tens of thousands of people, further cranked up tensions, already at levels unseen since the Cold War.

"We call on the Kyiv regime to immediately stop fighting and stop all hostilities... and return to the negotiating table," the Russian leader added.

The packed hall erupted to chants of "Russia! Russia" after the four leaders inked the deal, and Putin — rarely seen making physical contact since the pandemic — joined hands with his proxy leaders and was shown shouting along in unison on state TV.

Leading up to the ceremony Putin warned he could use nuclear weapons to retain control of the territories as Kyiv vowed the move would make no difference to its aims of kicking out Russian troops.

After the signing ceremony of treaties to join Russia, Moscow-installed leaders of the occupied regions gathered around Putin and they all linked hands, before then joining chants of "Russia! Russia!" with the audience.

Putin also railed at the West, cutting an angry figure as he accused the United States and its allies of seeking to destroy Russia. He said the West acted "as a parasite" and used its financial and technological strength "to rob the entire world."

He portrayed Russia as being on a historical mission to reclaim its post-Soviet great power status and counter Western domination that he said is collapsing. "History has called us to a battlefield to fight for our people, for the grand historic Russia, for future generations," he said.

Russian President Vladimir Putin is not yet planning a visit to the four Ukrainian regions he formally annexed on Friday, his spokesman told Russian news agencies.

"Not yet, there is a lot of work to be done but over time it will certainly happen," Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said, answering a question from reporters.

The separatist Donetsk and Luhansk regions in eastern Ukraine have been backed by Moscow since declaring independence in 2014, weeks after the annexation of Ukraine's Crimean Peninsula. The southern Kherson region and part of neighboring Zaporizhzhia were captured by Russia soon after Putin sent troops into Ukraine on Feb. 24.

Both houses of the Kremlin-controlled Russian parliament will meet next week to rubberstamp the treaties for the regions to join Russia, sending them to Putin for his approval.

The Kremlin-organized votes in Ukraine were an attempt by Putin to avoid more defeats on the battlefields that could threaten his 22-year rule. By setting Russia's gains in stone, at least on paper, Putin seemingly hopes to scare Ukraine and its Western backers with the prospect of an increasingly escalatory conflict unless they back down "which they show no signs of doing". Agencies

US lines up new sanctions, slams Russia's 'fraudulent' claims of annexation

WASHINGTON

THE United States on Friday announced "severe" new sanctions on Russia in response to what President Joe Biden called Moscow's "fraudulent" claim to have annexed four Ukrainian regions.

"The United States is imposing swift and severe costs on Russia," the White House said in a statement.

It also announced that G7 allies support imposing "costs" on any country that backs the Kremlin's attempt to incorporate the Ukrainian regions.

In a statement, Biden said "the United States condemns Russia's fraudulent attempt today to annex sovereign Ukrainian territory. Russia is violating international law, trampling on the United Nations Charter, and showing its contempt for peaceful nations everywhere."

"The United States will always honour Ukraine's internationally recognised borders. We will continue to support Ukraine's efforts to regain control of its territory by strengthening its hand militarily and diplomatically, including through the $1.1 billion in additional security assistance the United States announced this week," he continued.

The Treasury Department named hundreds of members of Russia's legislature, leaders of the country's financial and military infrastructure and suppliers for sanctions designations. The Commerce Department added 57 companies to its list of export control violators, and the State Department added more than 900 people to its visa restriction list.

Secretary of State Antony Blinken said "the United States unequivocally rejects Russia's fraudulent attempt to change Ukraine's internationally recognized borders."

"In response, the United States and our allies and partners are imposing swift and severe costs," he said.

The Biden administration said the sanctions will target scores of Russian parliament members, government officials, family members and also industries supplying the Russian military, "including international suppliers."

In a warning to the small number of countries potentially willing to recognise Russia's self-declared sovereignty over the four invaded regions, the administration said the G7 — Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the United States — had agreed to punish any such support.

"We are also issuing a clear warning supported by G7 Leaders: We will hold to account any individual, entity, or country that provides support for Russia's illegal attempts to change the status of Ukrainian territory," Blinken said.

Zelenskyy to accelerate Kyiv's bid to join NATO

KYIV

UKRAINE'S president says his country is submitting an 'accelerated' application to join the NATO military alliance.

The comment Friday by President Volodymyr Zelenskyy came just after Russia said it would annex four region of Ukraine it seized amid its war and held gunpoint referendums viewed as illegitimate by the international community.

Zelenskyy said: "We are taking our decisive step by signing Ukraine's application for accelerated accession to NATO."

It wasn't immediately clear what an 'accelerated' application would mean, as ascension to NATO requires the unanimous support of the alliance's members.

"De facto, we have already proven compatibility with alliance standards. They are real for Ukraine — real on the battlefield and in all aspects of our interaction," Zelenskyy said. "We trust each other, we help each other, and we protect each other. This is the alliance."

"The entire territory of our country will be liberated from this enemy — the enemy not only of Ukraine, but also of life itself, humanity, law and truth," he said. AFP

Court rules PM can stay, did not exceed term limit

Thailand's Constitutional Court ruled Friday that Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha can remain in his job and did not violate a constitutional provision limiting him to eight years in office. Opposition lawmakers had petitioned the court to decide on their contention that Prayuth, who took power as army commander in a 2014 coup, had violated the eight-year limit for prime ministers that was included for the first time in Thailand's 2017 Constitution. The nine-member court ruled in a 6-3 vote that because the constitution came into effect after Prayuth had already taken power, the term limit did not apply to the time he had previously served, since the constitution did not specify it could be applied retroactively. Had Prayuth been forced out Friday, power would have been ceded to a caretaker government with limited executive powers

Nestle drops supplier over farming practices

Swiss food giant Nestle said Friday it would stop purchasing palm oil from Astra Agro Lestari (AAL), an Indonesian firm whose farming practices have come under fire from activists. Nestle said it had instructed its direct suppliers to stop purchases from three AAL-linked entities. The decision follows an investigation conducted earlier this year by EcoNusantara, an independent Indonesian organisation dedicated to the protection of forests and the climate, the firm said. The investigation discovered land seizures, environmental damage and human rights violations by the three AAL subsidiaries. "As part of our approach to sustainable palm oil sourcing, we have been closely monitoring the situation in the region and the three AAL entities in question have been on our grievance list for several months," Nestle said

EUROZONE PRICE BOOM AT RECORD 10%

BRUSSELS

EUROZONE consumer prices skyrocketed by a record 10 per cent in September, official data showed on Friday, as inflation reached double digits on the back of soaring energy prices caused by Russia's war on Ukraine.

Stoked by a staggering 40.8 per cent rise in energy prices, the yearly inflation rate in the 19-country single currency area hit its highest level since records began, according to Eurostat. The historic level of inflation will encourage the European Central Bank to stay on its current path of rate hikes, in an effort to cool prices despite the risk of triggering economic recession in Europe. The ECB is desperate to prevent inflation from taking root in the economy and is taking measures that will reduce demand and could therefore slow growth.

In an urgent effort to tame prices, European Union energy ministers agreed on Friday to peak-hour power consumption and to impose windfall levies on energy companies.

In the face of a tough balancing act, ECB chief Christine Lagare indicated this week she would go ahead with another hefty rate hike of 0.75 percentage points at the bank's next meeting on October 27. "We expect to raise interest rates further over the next several meetings to dampen demand and guard against the risk of a persistent upward shift in inflation expectations," she told EU lawmakers.

Energy prices in Europe remain under intense pressure with Russia starving the continent of gas supply as winter approaches. AFP

Crisis-hit Sri Lanka's inflation zooms to 70%

COLOMBO

SRI Lanka's inflation rate hit nearly 70% in September for a 12th consecutive monthly record, official data showed Friday after a year of shortages, price hikes and economic misery.

The Colombo Consumer Price Index (CCPI), a leading indicator that gauges inflation in Sri Lanka's biggest city, rose 69.8% from a year ago, from 64.3% in August.

The contribution from the food sector was 30.8% in September, the statistics department said. Based on the CCPI, the moving average inflation in September was 33.4% over 28% recorded in August.

Most basic food items other than rice and eggs had seen increases. The government recently hiked utility services rates of water and electricity alongside the high cost of food.

Import restrictions imposed in the ongoing economic crisis have caused scarcities. The worsening foreign exchange crisis in April caused the government to announce debt default. The International Monetary Fund staff-level agreement to be reached soon for a $2.9 billion facility is hampered by the need to restructure debt.

Slum dwellers in Sri Lanka | AP

On September 1, the IMF announced that it will provide Sri Lanka with a loan of about $2.9 billion over a four-year period to help the island nation overcome the unprecedented economic turmoil.

It owes $51 billion in foreign debt, of which $28 billion must be paid by 2027.

Sri Lanka is facing the worst economic crisis since independence in 1948, which has led to an acute shortage of items like food. PTI

No signs of inflation easing

DOUBLE-DIGIT IN GERMANY

With consumer prices in Germany rising by 10.9 per cent, hitting double digits for the first time in decades, the government announced plans to spend up to 200 billion euros to help with surging gas bills in Europe's largest single economy

RECESSION FEARS

The ECB's target for inflation is two percent and efforts to get closer to that level have raised fears that the central bank may lead the bloc into a recession in its effort to reduce prices. "Despite the weak economic outlook we expect the banks to prioritise inflation and deliver another bumper rate hike next month," Jessica Hinds of Capital Economics said. Eurozone unemployment rate was at a record low of 6.6 per cent in July

TIMELESS BEAUTY

With the festive and wedding season upon us, the embroidery style from Lucknow, chikankari, is back in the luxury scene; many designers are coming up with exotic collections with the classic style

MONIKA MONALISA

YOU might have seen Sara Ali Khan or Janhvi Kapoor casually wearing a chikankari kurta and looking flawless; or Sonam Kapoor and Deepika Padokone wearing heavy chikankari ensembles and making all heads turn. But whatever it is, the versatility of this fabric, that comes from the Nawab's land of Lucknow, knows no bounds. With the festival season upon us, chikankari fabric is back to the luxury scene with many fashion designers coming up with collections using chikankari.

For instance, celebrity designer Megha Kapoor's latest men's collection is a fusion of chikankari and her signature mirror work. "I wanted to do something different for men's styles. In my previous collection, I used sequin as my base fabric. This time I have used organza and floral print. I just wanted to do something different but I wanted it to be a little heavy so I added some mirror work. Because mirrors go extremely well with that sort of a print," says Kapoor.

What she loves about the fabric is its not-so-heavy aspect which gives it a bandwidth to be used in any way.

"I know a lot of brides and grooms who swear by chikankari. It's something that anyone can go in for, it's for anybody unlike sequins which can be heavy that you have to think twice before adding embroidery," elaborates Kapoor.

Designer Vrinda Sachdev agrees. The fabric is special because it has an heirloom factor to it. "Our mothers and grandmothers have worn it that way; it is classic," says Sachdev.

And since there is room for experimentation with the fabric, it gives a wider range of options as well. "Usually chikankari work is done on georgette. Now, since there are seasonal changes with longer summers, chikankari has somewhat become a craft for all seasons. If you are wearing a nice chikankari work outfit during the peak of winter, it still looks stylish," explains Sachdev. Her latest collection is for men. "We have done front open kurtas. If you want to take something understated yet glamorous, then chikankari is your best bet," says Sachdev, adding that one can wear it with all kinds of jewellery like gold, silver, diamonds, pearls, and the list goes on.

With the festive and wedding season here, Preeti Jain, a chartered accountant, who is preparing for her friend's wedding, decided to go for a chikankari work saree. "I wanted to wear a saree for the reception, which is also a cocktail evening. So I picked a beautiful ivory saree. It is something that I could go back to again for any other occasion," says Jain.

A FRAGRANCE PERFECT FOR THE SPIRIT OF CELEBRATION

C. Krishniah Chetty Group Of Jewellers, which had launched India's only premium, luxury eau de parfum — Rare Scents, is now introducing 'Oriane' limited edition fragrance with only 151 pieces up for grab.

Oriane, meaning Sunrise, denotes the spirit of celebrations to come. The official launch of Oriane was held recently and is for sale at all five C. Krishniah Chetty showrooms and boutiques in Bengaluru and online on www.ckcjewellers.com/rare-scents.

Why Is It Limited

According to Chaitanya V Cotha, Executive Director, C. Krishniah Chetty Group Of Jewellers, Oriane is a result of a pursuit to create something that is true to the idea of Rare Scents. "Oriane was made with ingredients that are ethically sourced and aged. Such rare raw materials aren't easy to procure as they aren't available in abundance. Hence, the limited edition Oriane will only be available to 151 patrons which also is infused with real 24 karat gold flakes," he said, added that with Rare scents, the jwellery brand brings the art of world-class niche perfumery to India.

"We have worked with the top perfumers of the world to create world-class niche Eau De Parfums for Indian consumers. With Rare Scents, you get a whiff of the exotic as soon as you open our bottles," he mentioned.

The other five variants of Rare Scents are Adamas, Aurum, Berly, Corundum and Platinum.

What's Special

- A whiff of the exotic, that is reserved for special occasions.
- An iridescent blend of rare Indian Oud and spices, complimented by the touch of ambery warmth.
- Infused with real 24 Karat gold, Oriane is the perfect fragrance for the festival of lights.

Composition Of Oriane

- Top Notes - Bergamot, Peruvian Pink Pepper
- Heart Notes - Rose, White Flower, Cedar
- Base Notes - Saffron, Agarwood, Musk,

Sandalwood, Cinnamon

Why People Will Love It

Oriane brings the feeling of warmth and being surrounded with love and positivity. It is luxury and comfort in a bottle.

For a luxury jeweller like C. Krishniah Chetty, a brand extension like luxury perfumes was thought of as a good brand fit. I wanted to create the first luxury perfume brand from India that could compete with any international brand. SUKHASANA NECK SIDE STRETCH

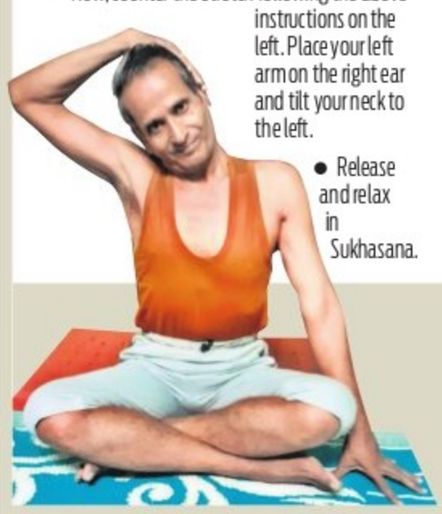
(EASY POSE NECK SIDE STRETCH)

This pose is a simple one of the neck that brings awareness to one side of the neck, shoulders, and back. It helps prepare the upper body for other yoga poses and sends a signal to the brain to relax, unclench the jaw, and release tension from the body.

STEPS

- Start seated on the cushion/yoga mat. Then, align to Sukhasana (Easy Pose).
- Bring your awareness to your breath, and stay here as you lengthen your spine for about 3-4 breaths.
- Then, place the palms firmly on your respective knees while sitting tall with your head, neck, and back in one line.
- When you begin to stretch the neck, inhale, put your right palm over your head on the left ear.
- As you exhale, gently drop your neck on the right shoulder giving the neck a side stretch.
- Stay in this pose for 3 deep breaths, then inhale to release the stretch and arm to the knees to return to the starting position.
- Now, counter the stretch following the above instructions on the left. Place your left arm on the right ear and tilt your neck to the left.
- Release and relax in Sukhasana.



BENEFITS

- Improves body posture and reduces neck stiffness.
- Relieves headaches, migraine, and blocked nose.
- Helps people suffering from constant neck and back pain.
- People with joint-related issues like osteoporosis of the neck (spondylosis) or back pain caused due to arthritis are also helped.
- Can be practised by elderly people, sitting on a chair.
- Reduces aches and pains accompanied by day-to-day activities.
- Relaxes muscles, and helps tissue regeneration.
- Alleviates cervical issues like disc degeneration or bulge, pain in the neck.
- Increases the flexibility and range of motion of both the joints.
- Acts as a warm-up, preparing the upper back, chest, and arms for other yoga poses.
- Opens, stretches, and relaxes the involved muscles.

LIMITATIONS

People recovering from fracture or injuries to the neck/shoulder, spine, worn joints and nerve compression should avoid this.

BUZZING AND STINGING

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

NAMMA ooru is turning into a hot-bed of activity. The city is buzzing and one can barely keep up with the frenzied activity of launch parties, art exhibitions and performances. There are new restaurants mushrooming every time there is a mild shower! I am reminded about the days of yore, when getting invited and being seen at the right place at the right time (the 'paps' ruled the roost in those days) was every budding and fading socialite's ambition. It can be amusing to watch the shift in power, as the younger usurpers gain a foot-hold into the scene beyond the 'velvet-rope' where the lines between 'beau-monde' and 'bawdy' get blurred!

Sometimes it's nice to be a fly on the wall and observe the frantic scuttling about; the eagerness to pose, the networking, and making sure that one is noticed. But sometimes the sheer rawness of the scenario unfolding seems to slap one's sensibilities! All fodder for my new book, but then again, I am an auld Bangalore girl and not prone to opening a Pandora's box spilling over with secrets! I think the problem starts when younger and older socialites are nothing but…socialites. When there isn't a body of work that encompasses you and one doesn't add value to a gathering, then the fur starts flying. Anyway a sense of ennui has overcome me a long time ago. I go where I feel happy; where there is a smaller group of people.

So when Vishal Nagpal and Maco Ravindran invited yours truly to a precursor to a pop-up that they had planned with the young and talented Pritika Chittaranjan, I jumped at the opportunity. Pritika has her roots in the North-East, and was keen to showcase a world-class dinner using her beloved indigenous produce from there. The quality, innovation and taste of her supper blew us away. It's about time we encouraged more talent to 'pop-up' like this!

I also had the opportunity to attend a very informative 'The bean, the brew and its people' coffee seminar followed by a delicious lunch at Grand Mercure. The panel discussion was very interesting and I am grateful that my friend, the GM Sachin Maheshwari, insisted I make it. Again, I was delighted to be amidst a niche group of coffee aficionados, where the conversation was as heady as the coffee cocktails.

I remember being amongst the first group of people when the talented duo, Jean Mitchelle and his brother outlined their vision of a Parisian Café. The piazza at UB City was ideal and we spent many afternoons drinking coffee and eating the delicious mille-feuille (a classic French puff-pastry layered dessert made from vanilla custard). Well now, a talented team of new owners have opened another outlet at Indiranagar. Again sensibly, they had called a small group of people over many days to savour their fare. I spotted many die-hard fans of the café enjoying the delicious dinner.

The week ahead is packed with thrills and frills, and no, I'm not complaining… 'Tis the season!

Dr Amit Jain, a surgeon, laid down the first principle and practice of Diabetic foot from India

The Amit Jain Project for Diabetic Foot Care – a national and International initiative, is a one man vision and mission to improve the diabetic foot care across India and around the globe. Being one of the pioneers in the field of diabetic foot, from 2012 to 2022, Dr Amit Jain, considered the founder and father of modern diabetic foot as per published literature, had laid down various new concepts in diabetic foot field ranging from staging, grading to scoring system in diabetic foot which ultimately resulted in development of Amit Jain's Principle and Practice of diabetic foot that aimed at improvising and standardise the diabetic foot practice around the world. This is the world's first principle and practice of diabetic foot till date in this field.

With four distinct world records to his credit for his work on diabetic foot, Dr Jain has set a big example of passion, patience, persistence and perseverance.

Years ago, he was identified as a hidden talent by the Gulf Diabetic Foot Working Group and had presented him to the international forum for his unique work.

Dr Amit Jain, the Founder and Father of modern diabetic foot as per published literature

In Bengaluru, the board of doctor directors of Brindhavvan Areion Hospital had already named its diabetic foot wing as 'Amit Jain's Institute of Diabetic Foot & Wound Care'. "It was done so as as a mark of respect and honour to the doctor for his contribution in medical literature at a young age and this is now a world record," says Dr Kishore Kumar, one of the hospital directors.

Dr Jain also has a record in 'Best of India's record' for having highest number of innovative teaching tools from the Indian subcontinent.

"Working on diabetic foot and to come out with original, dedicated, and innovative work was not easy and was commonly overlooked by many experts. That too when the disease was known to be neglected both by patient and healthcare professionals and many did not like this work in view of foul smell, pus discharge and unfavorable outcomes," says Dr Jain and adds that being dedicated to the whole new original innovative work required lot of time, money and sacrifices.

He has a non-stop urge to do more on diabetic foot and this is evident with 'Amit Jain's Project for Diabetic Foot- A national and international initiative' to train doctors and nurses to decrease amputation, which is one of the largest independent project in diabetic foot as per published literature.

"There are many more records & laurels to come for Dr Jain considering his work in the medical field and also his selfless philanthropic work towards the society. It is high time that various organisations, medical associations and government bodies and other philanthropic organisations took a note of this," says Jobin John, the person behind the Amit Jain's Charitable trust, that was opened recently.

RISHAB SHETTY DELIVERS A COMPELLING AND ROOTED FILM

KANTARA
Director: Rishab Shetty
Cast: Rishab Shetty, Sapthami Gowda, Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, Prakash Thuminad, Pramod Shetty, and Manasi Sudhir

A SHARADHAA

CONFLICTS between man and nature have always provided enough fodder to our filmmakers to dole out one film after the other. Rishab Shetty's Kantara, though dealing with the same concept, strives to be original and wins at it by staying rooted and realistic. Even in his previous films, Ricky and Sa.Hi.Pra Shaale, Rishab expressed his flair for telling stories of the coastal belt of Karnataka. With Kantara, he further goes deep into the woods to talk about safeguarding forests even while delivering a compelling revenge-action drama with a blend of crime and divinity.

Kantara is set in a fictional village of Dakshina Kannada, and begins in the 18th century when a king exchanges a piece of land with his people and moves on to find peace and happiness. Centuries later, the same land becomes a threat to the tribals of that area., but they believe their demigods, doubling up as their guardians, protect the village. The story shifts to the 90s, and we see the face-off between villagers who dwell in the forests, and the forest officer who wants to clear any encroachment in the area.

Shiva (Rishab Shetty) lives a carefree life with his friends, and is often at loggerheads with forest officer Murali (Kishore), who just wants to uphold the law of the land. We also have a politician Devendra Suttur (Achyuth Kumar), whose misdeeds become his identity. But there is a bigger evil at work, and Kantara is about Shiva's struggle to bring justice to the people of the village. The film ends with an outstanding climax, which is definitely the USP of Kantara. There are multiple viewpoints in Kantara, and it is all wonderfully brought together by Rishab, who has written and directed the film too.

Rishab is only getting better with each film, and the backing of Hombale Films has allowed the filmmaker to make the movie more realistic. Even though it runs on the familiar territory of human-nature conflict, the chapters of Bhoota kola and Kambala make it unique. Every frame of the film is beautiful. DOP Aravind Kashyap lights up Kantara in vivid shades, and with able support from art director Dharani Gange Putra, gives Kantara a rather natural look.

RATING 4/5

Kantara also explores some serious issues like caste discrimination. While there is no separate comedy track, there are enough quirks in some of the characters to add to the fun quotient. The film brings in crisp narration, and extra credit should be given to the well-orchestrated action sequences. Composer Ajaneesh Loknath is marvellous in Kantara. While his folk melodies are soothing, the background score accentuates the narrative of Kantara.

Rishab, the actor, is outstanding as Shiva, and breathes life to this rather unconventional character. He has undergone a mass and intense transformation for the role, and the effects are evident. Rishab's performance in the nail-biting climax will definitely make the audience cheer and applaud for him. Sapthami Gowda as forest guard Leela, who is also Shiva's love interest, delivers a decent performance in Kantara. Kishore and Achyuth too give powerful performances, and it is a joy to watch the former's intense ego clashes with Shiva. Manasi Sudhir, Pramod Shetty and Prakash Thuminad too are decent with their acts.

With Kantara, Rishab once again creates magic, both as a director and an actor, and delivers an entertainer with a strong social message, and even stronger final act.

SUDHIR SRINIVASAN

Tasteful writing and top performances make this a likeable adaptation

PONNIYIN SELVAN 1
Director: Mani Ratnam
Cast: Karthi, Jayam Ravi, Vikram, Aishwarya Rai, Trisha, Jayaram

I have not read Kalki's Ponniyin Selvan, but it has always been apparent that the character of Vandhiyathevan wields great charisma. Many top actors have dreamt for years about playing this character, and now, after having watched Mani Ratnam's Ponniyin Selvan 1, it's finally apparent to me why. This character, in a sense, can be likened to Rahman's opening song, 'Ponni Nadhi'—which heralds the beginning of his epic journey. Like the river, he flows where he wishes, and he's a source of much life wherever he lands. Like the river shifts everything in its wake, so does he. At one point, when asked about his whereabouts, he says, "I'm from everywhere…" and talks of being able to find peace anywhere under the sky and over the land. I wondered if that's why he doesn't hurt when he lands from great height like a waterfall. I wondered if that's why he's so frightened of the ocean—you know, that place where the river dies. He's funny, he's flirtatious, and when he is on screen, good luck taking your eyes off him.

His interplays with actor Jayaram—who plays Azhwarkadiyan Nambi—are delightful. The latter has always been a skilled exponent at slapstick humour, and his adventures in this film offer further proof. It seems to me that sometimes, we get so consumed by Mani Ratnam's explorations of emotion that we don't quite acknowledge how organically he weaves in humour into his films. There are so many lively, laugh-out-loud moments in this film arising from organic exchanges—once, from Vandhiyathevan simply observing his reflection in water.

There are other performances in Ponniyin Selvan that leave you gasping for breath. Vikram, as Aditha Karikalan, is gloriously unbridled as the crown-prince. A scene where he speaks of suppressed pain sees him bare his heart out. Ahead of the film's release, there were what seemed to me to be unfair reservations on the casting of Jayam Ravi—who has always struck me as an invested performer. He's on point as 'Ponniyin Selvan', the dutiful prince who comes into the limelight later in the film.

As for the women in the Ponniyin Selvan world, it's wonderful that despite this being a story that's occurring a thousand years earlier, they aren't reduced to being ornamental spouses—or as happens in many an epic historical story, a property that men fight over. Sure, a foiled romance might be at the heart of this story too, but both Nandini (Aishwarya Rai) and Kundavai (Trisha) get established as devious women who know how to create desirable outcomes in the patriarchal world around them. Among the most powerful moments in this film is when both come face-to-face. It also doubles up as an example of why Mani Ratnam is a master at creating memorable, visual drama. Another example is that introduction shot of Nandini, as she slides open the curtains of her palanquin. As an almost ethereal woman who knows how to beguile men, Aishwarya Rai is compelling. In more than one scene, we see only part of her face—perhaps because there's more to her than she lets out?

While there's the opulence in ornamentation and the expansiveness of palaces and forts, what's unmistakeable is also the simplicity of an older time when the rivers ran full, and the earth had not been plundered yet. Through the shenanigans of Vandhiyathevan, we get some glimpses into the history of our land. It's a world in which a man has to undertake an adventure of a thousand miles just to pass on the message of a dozen words. It's a world in which a lover has to wait for weeks to learn whether her words of affection have been delivered. It's a world in which the word 'scroll' had not come to signify disinterest. There's great pleasure in seeing what once was.

RATING 4/5

There's greater pleasure in experiencing AR Rahman climb into this film and deliver the type of songs and score he seems to always summon for this filmmaker for whom he made his debut. Be it with a 'Ponni Nadhi' that gently nudges us into this world or the aggressive, hyper-masculine 'Chola Chola' that captures the thrill of conquest, his score is a life-force. In fact, Aditha Karikalan's two powerful moments in this film are big beneficiaries of the Academy Award winner's score.

For a film about succession issues, about conquests and rebellion, perhaps the action sequences aren't as memorable as you might expect them to be. Yes, there's urgency in capturing the violence of thundering hooves and swinging swords, but the fight choreography feels mostly generic with individual set-pieces not bursting with personality—except, I suppose, that final stretch that captures the chaos of a mad sea. And yet, PS-1 doesn't quite end in a way that signifies the satisfying completion of a first film. It's perhaps a consequence of Mani Ratnam interpreting this as one-half of a complete film—but given that PS-1 is packaged as a feature film lasting almost three hours, I think it's only fair that we expect it to possess its own fulfilling end.

Perhaps the foremost pleasure of a Mani Ratnam film is in experiencing his wizardry over the medium. To use an endearing description often ascribed to Vandhiyathevan in PS-1, a 'maayakaaran'. You see plenty of examples in this film. The choreography and lighting in Devaralan Aattam—which, perhaps due to the location or all the backlighting, reminded me of 'Veerapandi Kottaiyile' from another Mani Ratnam film (it seemed like an enjoyable coincidence that an enemy king in this film is named Veera Pandiyan). How about that mythical entrance of Aditha Karikalan? Or how about that incredible pre-interval scene—a directorial masterclass really—that condenses grief and sleeplessness of years into a few minutes of dialogue? Listening to this song ahead of the film's release, you would be forgiven for expecting a track about heroism and machismo. Instead, we get one about pain and regret—and in a sense, some commentary about the cause of indiscriminate violence.

These are joys that sustain you through the less-effective portions—like the not-so-deep insight you get into many characters… yet, or the straightforward action. Even here, take one tempestuous battle as an example, which must have been quite a task to execute. While you are taking it in, it's hard to forget you are watching a Mani Ratnam film. You notice that this isn't a thousand men taking on another thousand men to bring an epic film to its conclusion. This is a battle much simpler in scale, and yet, much scarier to witness. For one character, in fact, it's as much a psychological battle as it is physical. It is said that the most rousing battles are fought not on the outside but on the inside. By that account, PS-1 does present snapshots of many epic battles, with the promise of more in the second film. Consider me intrigued.
